WASHINGTON FEMALE INSTITUTE,
Under the direction of
MRS. ELIZA W. SMITH,
Late Principal of Ipswich Female Seminary, Mass.
Twelve Professors and Teachers constitute the Board of Instruction. Pupils reside at this Institute and enjoy the advantages of the Institute—the Pantheon, the Moral, the Musical and the Graceful. A cultivated mind and elevated morality will accompany little by little the feeble constitution of the delicate pupil. Physical education is placed first. Aids to this are found in the graceful exercises of the Pantheon, the Calisthenic Exercises, the Gymnasium with its ropes and ladders, vaulting poles and vaulting horses, bars and parallel bars, and horizontal bars. Well trained ponies and saddle horses belonging to the institution, and kept for this purpose, give pupils the benefit of the best riding, after careful instruction in the management of the noble animal. The Grecian Department comprises Music, Drawing, Calisthenic exercises, Dancing, Carriage and Conversation, generally. A gold medal is awarded to each pupil of the Graduating Class at the annual examination in July. Parents may be assured that no efforts or appliances will be wanting to secure the health, the mental improvement and elegance of their daughters and wards, while the utmost strictness and economy will be observed. The young ladies will have the advantage of attending the lectures of the Smithsonian Institute, and of visiting them places of interest and instruction which are found only in the national metropolis. Post office address, Eliza W. Smith, Washington, D. C., box 1702.

We arrived at Simoda on the 27th of June, after a very rough passage of five days from Nagasaki, and found in that port the American schooner Wanderer.

Soon after we anchored a few Japanese officials came on board and warmly welcomed us back, as they did also Mr. Harris. Since we left that port all the extensive stocks of American ware and other valuable Chinese merchandise have been removed up to the port of Kanagawa, and nearly all the principal officers have also been sent up to the same place from Simoda. The day after our arrival the Governor of the province, accompanied by a large suite, called upon Mr. Harris, at his residence, to take their final leave of him previous to his final departure from the place. The meeting was attended by several of our officers. Mr. Powers and Mr. Heusken, the secretary, said they were interesting; the Governor expressed himself warmly of the kind treatment that he and his subjects had received from him during his long sojourn with them; and he said it was with the deepest regret that the inhabitants of Simoda parted with him. In return, Mr. Harris thanked the Governor for the kind and faithful attention and assistance that he had received at his hands, and presented the Governor down to the humblest fisherman." Mr. Harris said—"I came here among you as a stranger, and you received me as one of your own people, and your friendly acts and feelings towards me and my country will never be forgotten by me or my countrymen." The Governor then warmly embraced Mr. Harris, Mr. Dorr and Mr. Erthins, and then returned to Simoda proper. Men were then sent on shore to assist in packing Mr. Harris' goods, and the liberty pole of American freedom—the first one ever hoisted in Japan—was lowered to the ground, to be taken to Kanagawa. He gave his cow pigs and poultry to the officers and crew of this ship.

A large number of the merchants of Simoda have removed, and there will soon follow, up to Kanagawa, which seem to be the centre of the trade. Yesterday Young Hicco, the Japanese before spoken of in a former letter as being with us, went on shore at Simoda to learn some intelligence respecting his parents, and he received the unwelcome news, which we hope will prove untrue, that his father was dead (his home is in Oraki, fifty miles from Simoda). The young adventurer is much depressed in spirits at this news, which he hopes will turn out to be false. We have here a young Japanese, called by the Japanese as one of their number, but since their some of three that came on board spied him out at once, and commenced a chit-chat with him in the Japanese language. They appeared very glad to see him, but they could not make out how he was dressed up in such gorgeous style. Previous to our leaving, the Governor paid us an official visit and took his farewell leave of Captain Nicholson and the good old Simoda, which ship will never again enter the harbor of Simoda, which ship will never again enter the harbor of Simoda, which ship will never again enter the harbor of ES plainly deducible from the Dred Scott case, necessary and with a resolution that they will vote for no man for the Presidency or Vice Presidency of the United States who does not plainly and distinctly affirm and support them without equivocation, dodging or equivocation.

2. Should the Charleston Convention declare and affirm these rights, and nominate candidates for the Presidency and Vice Presidency who distinctly support them, then the Southern States will support such candidates; and should they be elected proof will be afforded that the South may continue safely in the confederacy.

3. But should the candidates for the Presidency and Vice Presidency, thus fairly nominated by the Charleston Convention, be defeated in the Presidential election, and the republican or abolition party succeed in electing their candidates, then the Southern States, in convention, assembled together, should at the time they shall successively assemble together, should elect their Senators and Representatives from the Congress of the United States, and invite the General Assembly of their sister Southern States to devise means for their common safety.

4. But should the Charleston Convention refuse to declare and affirm the rights of the South, as deducible from the Dred Scott case, or nominate candidates who will not affirm and support them, then let the Southern States nominate and support candidates of their own, plainly and faithfully reflecting and supporting their rights.

5. Should the Southern States succeed in electing their sectional candidates, thus nominated, of course they will deem it a sufficient proof for the present of their safety in the Union.

6. But should the Southern States fail in electing the sectional candidates thus nominated, then let the same course be pursued as has been pointed out in case the democratic party be defeated with candidates standing on the rights of the South, and the republican or abolition candidates be elected.

The Registration of Voters Yesterday.

The Registrars of voters proceeded with their work yesterday in much the same manner as they did on Tuesday. The Registrars complain that the books furnished them are not large enough or suitable for the purpose for which they are intended. The alphabetical pages are so few that they were compelled very often to register the names on separate pieces of paper and insert them in the regular book.

It is asserted that in some of the wards the Registrars only copy a part of the poll lists, leaving off the names of persons not known to be all right. It is also stated that the Registrars have received instructions to register only those who are endorsed by the Democratic Ward Associations.

Most of the Boards have concluded their labors for the present, and adjourned to meet on the Tuesday preceding the November election; others of the Boards, however, will meet to-day.

Our reporters experienced immense difficulties in ferreting out the Registration localities. The aid of police officers and private citizens was generally called in and readily responded to, but yet the result in most instances was but a ridiculous muse. In some places the Registry had been opened in a private house, in others it had not been opened, and in a few groceries named in the advertisement no one knew anything about the concern. Everybody seemed to look upon the Registration as a jolly good joke.

The Registrars desire that the public should know that one copy of a register will be left with each ward, and that all voters may make corrections in the spelling of their names, residences, &c.

We subjoin a summary of the week thus far, with the exception of two wards. In the others the returns are nearly full, with but few exceptions:—

Parade of the Daniel E. Delavan Musketeers.

The Daniel E. Delavan Marksmen, one of the most extensive independent military corps of our city, made their first annual parade yesterday, and visited the Red House, Harlem. They assembled at an early hour at the City Assembly rooms, No. 444 Broadway, where, procuring muskets, they—under command of Major George B. Hall, and numbering about three hundred and fifty men, equipped in black coat and pants, blue caps and white belts—marched through the principal streets to the number of about sixty men also accompanied them, James Irving commanding. After the formation of the line the battalion, by companies, wheeled into column, and, headed by Shelton's Band, numbering fifty pieces, proceeded up Broadway to Prince street, passing in review at the residence of Daniel E. Delavan, Esq., on Sullivan street they countermarched and proceeded to Broadway, thence to the Park, where they paid a marching salute to the Mayor and Corporation, and then proceeded thence to the Harlem Railroad line, and proceeded to Red House, which place they reached about one o'clock. A collation was in waiting, and as soon as the battalion had refreshed themselves they proceeded to fire at the target. Messrs. John N. Cohen, Jas. Wm. Bradley, Genet, and Poole, Wm. L. French, Esq., and Henry Arcularius acted as judges.

Rifles were only used for firing, and but two hundred had fired when it became dark, and it was impossible to see the target at any great distance. Further shooting was therefore postponed, and the party returned to town into line and returning to the cars reached the city about eight o'clock. They proceeded to the Assembly rooms where they had down to a sumptuous collation which was in waiting. Five tables, running the full length of the hall, groaned under the weight of viands, erected upon a platform, were spread with all the delicacies of the season. At the main table were a large number of guests. Among others, Hon. Fernando Wood, Hon. John Cochrane, Andrew V. Stout, City Chamberlain; Charles Delavan, Captain Richard French, Thomas K. Twaning, John S. Gilbert, Wm. D. Bloodgood, Edward Ellis Ward, John N. Genin, Wm. L. French, and Deputy Superintendent Carpenter. After the company had done justice to the good things the health of Daniel E. Delavan was proposed, which was drank with nine hearty cheers.

Mr. Delavan in return expressed himself highly honored for the handsome manner they had received his name, more especially coming as it did from so many of his fellow citizens. He was proud of the success of the display they had made, turning out over four hundred, which was to him a surety that as at the head of the rifle corps in the departments his labors had been appreciated. He alluded to the time when he was called upon to take possession of the City Inspector's Department, and the state of the times. He had now got it in working order and though he had to say it himself he had never seen the streets in better order since he was a boy. He had accepted the position and he intended to do his duty so long as he remained. In conclusion he asked their united support in carrying out the arrangements of the Corps.

Hon. John Cochrane being honored with a toast responded briefly, alluding in a very complimentary manner to the importance of the Guard and their namesake, Daniel E. Delavan.

The judges here being ready to report the successful winners, appeared before the company. Colonel Cornell, President of the Board of Councilmen, on behalf of the judges, stated that they would award the prizes to those who had hit the nearest the bullseye, the highest prizes over and above the number that had hit the target. Those not having fired should draw for the balance of the prizes.

This seemed to give general satisfaction, and the judges at once proceeded to call up the successful marksmen. The prizes numbered in all about eighty-six. The first prize, a gold watch, presented by Mr. Delavan, was awarded to Mr. J. W. Jones, of Company Number Four. Corporal O'Keefe took the second prize, a set of costly furs, and Thomas Reilly a gold watch, presented by the Mayor, the third prize. The names of those who had the prizes were awarded, and the names of the successful winners in full could not be given.

The Difficulties at San Juan—England Again Threatening the Tomahawk.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE NEW YORK HERALD.

PARIS, Sept. 29, 1859.

The London Sun publishes a letter, dated August 1, from a correspondent at Vancouver, of which the following is an extract:—

The Americans did not count the cost of insulting or attacking us. They were so blind to consider the Indians, who are burning for revenge, thirsting for their blood, to be known that the English are no longer friendly with Americans, and slumbering in security. Well, you but let it be known that they are at war, and 100,000 Indians will attack the Americans masked.

Americans forget that we command the Indians! Never. They do not need this reminder of the fact, that an unnatural mother bounded on hordes of savages against her children and urged them to bloody butchery, not only by giving them full license, but by offering rewards for the scalp locks of the progeny, without regard to sex or age. Forget!!! Never; while there lives a man upon our Western shores this deep and damning fact upon the page of England's history will never be effaced; and now in the dress age of civilized progress, the nineteenth century, we have unmistakable evidence that the mother country has the tragedy again. Let England know we shall never forget that act, any more than we can ever forget that, in 1812, this same England sent her minions to burn our Capitol, invaded our national capital, and, in a spirit of ruthlessness that would have shamed the Goths and Vandals, and, in the 19th of the 19th century, deliberately applied the torch to our public buildings and burned the archives of our nation; an act for the parallel of which we look in vain through history, and which, if it had been done by some mauled; but the bitter wrongs of his childhood years still rankle in his breast, and let Old England be assured that if ever the day should come when we are "let loose" (and when she will again be arrayed in arms against us, the recollection of these bitter wrongs will rouse a spirit of retaliation that will make Britain tremble.

As she sees fit in her arrogance to give us this bloody warning, it is but right she should in turn be warned that the Indians are not forgotten, and that, if they, they should be again aroused she will long have reason to regret the indiscretion, which will have provoked a generous and forgiving people to fall back upon their past wrongs. ORISKANY.

SPOTS ON THE SUN.—The spots on the sun are unusually numerous and large this year. At the present time there are eleven groups of spots visible, two of which have grown to a considerable magnitude since Sunday. A very large spot has been recently observed nearly in the centre, embracing a central black spot and a still larger penumbra region. It is said to be daily undergoing remarkable change.

THE KILLED AND WOUNDED.

LIST OF THE CONSPIRATORS, WHITE AND BLACK.

THE EFFECT IN WASHINGTON, &c., &c., &c.

Peace and quiet are restored at Harper's Ferry. The five prisoners in the hands of the troops, including Osawattomie Brown, whose wounds are said not to be serious, have been conveyed to Charlestown, Va., where they are to be tried by the State authorities for murder. If such prosecution fail, then the United States will try them for treason. Brown has made a full statement, implicating Gerrit Smith, Joshua Giddings, Fred. Douglass, and other abolitionists and black republicans. Gerrit Smith appears to have furnished some of the sinews of war. In Brown's house was found quite a magazine of arms and ammunition.

Our despatches from Washington and Baltimore give full and most interesting particulars. They are as follows:—

OUR WASHINGTON DESPATCHES.

WASHINGTON, Oct 19, 1859.

Brown and the other prisoners have just been taken from the Armory and put on special train and started for Charlestown. There is an immense crowd around the gales and cars, with all sorts of arms; but a guard of twenty-five or thirty marines surrounded the prisoners. There was no attempt at violence. Governor Wise, Senator Mason and others accompanied the train. The Circuit commences to-morrow when, probably, the prisoners will be indicted and will be tried on Friday. There is no foundation for the rumor of filibusters in the Maryland mountains.

Brown's wounds are slight. He has made a long statement to Governor Wise to-day, and to Senator Mason and District Attorney Odil, in presence of Mr. Vallandigham, of Ohio, and Mr. Faulkner, of Virginia, members of Congress, and other leading men. Papers that have been found in his possession implicate Gerrit Smith, Joshua Giddings, and other notorious abolitionists, who furnished money.

Two commitments have been lodged—one by the State and the other by the United States. This was done to meet the question of jurisdiction.

Brown abuses Cook for deserting him.

The following additional intelligence has been received by the Government:—

Everything is quiet. There are only five prisoners—three wounded and two unhurt. Six citizens have been killed and one marine. All the citizens were killed outside the limits of the United States territory in Virginia. The marine was mortally wounded in it. I have seen Colonel Lee, but not Governor Wise. Only nineteen persons were engaged in the matter, of whom five were free negroes from the North. Brown has been living a few miles from here, in Maryland, since June last. His premises were searched to-day, and fifteen hundred pikes and two hundred guns were found, besides flints, axes, blankets, clothing, &c., in abundance. Brown says he has provided for the wounded men, and that all his party are either killed or captured, except one, who left on Monday. They were driven by the Virginians into the Armory, and there Colonel Lee and twelve marines did the balance. All the slaves engaged, if any, were forced. None of the persons held by Brown were hurt, although all were in the building stormed by the marines. The books and papers of Brown are secured, and throw considerable light on the movement. Strange it is not known that Brown and his eighteen men took possession of the government property and town, and held them during Sunday night and Monday. The government money is all safe. It is not known which of the party killed the marine. The man who carried off Lewis Washington is one of the wounded prisoners. I do not apprehend any violence to the prisoners.

On receipt of this intelligence the President directed District Attorney Odil to deliver the prisoners over to Virginian authorities, as it was under the laws of that State the murders had been committed, and as the United States had jurisdiction only in one case, and that the death of the United States marine.

The Secretary of the Navy, after consultation with the Secretary of War, despatched an order to the commanding officer of marines to return at once to Washington. Gen. Wise will therefore take charge of the prisoners. Their trials will come off as soon as the necessary arrangements can be instituted.

The President has received the papers and documents which were found on the person and in the values of Brown. They have not yet been thoroughly examined but enough is known of their character to show that the conspiracy had an extensive organization in the various States, and that leading men of the North, East and West were engaged in it. They had a regular constitution and laws, by which they were governed. The chief of the conspirators had power to appoint officers of various grades, and it is clear he exercised that authority. The papers disclose that Brown kept a daily journal, in which he set forth the details of his transactions, the purchase of arms in large quantities, and stores and ammunition of all kinds. Field sugarcanes, picks and shovels for throwing up temporary fortifications, calls or boatswain's whistles of a new kind, being very shrill and capable of being heard at a long distance, which are supposed to have been intended for assembling his bands or warning them of danger, were among these stores. The whistles found in his effects were made in Philadelphia, and forwarded to an agent of his in Baltimore last week, per Adams & Company's express. Some of them were found in his value.

It is not deemed advisable at present to publish the names of persons engaged in this conspiracy, or the contents of papers found, as it might thwart and defeat the investigation which is about to be instituted.

There is said to be nothing in the papers found showing that the negroes, or others belonging at Harper's Ferry, or its vicinity, were parties cognizant before fact in Brown's conspiracy. Among other things embraced in this batch of papers are said to be the names of various persons upon whom he might rely for aid in case of necessity. It is also said to be apparent from them that he was promised instant extensive aid from abroad, which, as the result proves, failed him. There can now be no doubt that his grand aim was to create a general servile insurrection.

The following are the constitution and ordinances of the conspirators:—

PROVISIONAL CONSTITUTION AND ORDINANCES FOR THE PEOPLE OF THE UNITED STATES.

PREAMBLE.

Whereas, slavery throughout its entire existence in the United States is none other than the most barbarous, unprovoked and unjustifiable war of one portion of its citizens against another portion, the only conditions of which are perpetual imprisonment and hopeless servitude, or absolute extermination, in utter disregard and violation of those eternal and self-evident truths set forth in our declaration of independence;

Therefore, we the citizens of the United States and the oppressed people, who by a recent decision of the Supreme Court are declared to have no rights which the white man is bound to respect, together with all the kindred people degraded by the same infamous decree, do for the time being ordain and establish for ourselves the following provisional constitution and ordinances, the better to secure our people, property, lives and liberties, and to govern our actions:—

ARTICLE I.

Qualifications for Membership.

All persons of mature age, whether prescribed, oppressed and outlawed, or prescribers, of the oppressed races of the United States, who shall agree to sustain and enforce the provisional constitution and ordinances of organization, together with such other children of such persons, shall be held to be fully entitled to protection under the same.

ARTICLE 2.

Branches of Government.

The provisional government of this organization shall consist of three branches—viz: the legislative, executive and judicial.

ARTICLE 3.

The Legislative.

The legislative branch shall be a Congress, or House of Representatives, composed of not less than five nor more than ten members, who shall be elected by all the citizens of mature age and of sound mind connected with this organization, and who shall continue in office for three years, unless sooner removed for misconduct or inability, or by death. A majority of such members shall constitute a quorum.

ARTICLE 4.

Executive.

The executive branch of this organization shall consist of a President and Vice President, who shall be chosen by the citizens or members of this organization, and each of whom shall hold his office for three years, unless sooner removed by death or for inability or misconduct.

ARTICLE 5.

Judicial.

The judicial branch shall consist of one Chief Justice of the Supreme Court and four Associate Judges of the said court, each of them constituting a Circuit Court. They shall each be chosen by the Congress or the President, and shall continue in office until their places have been filled in the same manner by an election of citizens.

ARTICLE 12 TO 20.

Provide for the trial of the President and other officers and members of Congress, the impeachment of judges, the duties of the President and Vice President, the appointment of crimes, army appointments, salaries, &c. These articles are not of sufficient importance and are therefore omitted.

ARTICLE 21.

Treaties of Peace.

Before any treaty of peace shall be put in full effect, it shall be signed by the President, Vice President, Commander-in-Chief, a majority of the House of Representatives, a majority of the Congress, and a majority of all the General officers of the army.

ARTICLE 27.

Duty of the Military.

It shall be the duty of the Commander-in-Chief and all the officers and soldiers of the army, to afford special protection, when needed, to any member of the Congress thereof, to the Supreme Court or any member thereof; to the President, Vice President, Treasurer and Secretary of War, and to afford general protection to all civil officers or other persons having a right to the same.

ARTICLE 28.

All captured or confiscated property, and all property the product of the labor of those belonging to this organization and of those belonging to the United States the property of the whole equally, without distinction, and may be used for the common benefit or disposed of for the same object. And any person who shall wantonly destroy such property retain, secrete, use or needlessly destroy such property, or property found, captured or confiscated, belonging to the enemy, or belonging to the United States in a full and fair statement of such property by him so taken or held, shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and on conviction shall be punished accordingly.

ARTICLE 29.

Safety or Intelligence Fund.

All money, plate, watches or jewelry captured by honorable warfare, or taken from the plantations belonging to the enemy, shall be held sacred to constitute a liberal safety or intelligence fund; and any person who shall improperly retain, secrete, use or dispose of such money or other article above named, contrary to the provisions and spirit of this article shall be deemed guilty of theft, and on conviction be punished accordingly. Provisionally, The treasurer shall furnish the commander-in-chief at all times with a full statement of the condition of such fund and its uses.

ARTICLE 30.

The Commander-in-Chief and the Treasury.

The commander-in-chief shall have power to draw from the treasury the money and other property of the fund provided for in article 29, but his orders shall be signed also by the secretary of the treasury, who shall keep an account of the same, subject to inspection by any member of Congress or general officer.

ARTICLE 31.

Surplus of the Safety or Intelligence Fund.

It shall be the duty of the commander-in-chief to advise the President of any surplus of the safety and intelligence fund, and he shall have power to draw the same, his orders being signed by the Secretary of State, to enable him to carry out the provisions of article 17.

ARTICLE 32.

Spies.

No person, after having surrendered himself a prisoner, and who shall properly demean himself or herself as such, shall be considered or treated as belonging to organization, shall afterwards be put to death or be subjected to any corporeal punishment without first having had the benefit of a fair and impartial trial. Nor shall any prisoners be treated with any kind of cruelty, disrespect, insult or needless severity; but it shall be the duty of all persons, and especially of commanders, at all times and under all circumstances to treat all such prisoners with every degree of respect and kindness that the nature of the circumstances will admit of, treating them as a like course of conduct from all others, as in fear of the Almighty God, to whose care and keeping we commit our cause.

ARTICLE 33.

Volunteers.

All persons who may come to us, and shall voluntarily deliver up slaves, and have their names registered on the books of this organization, shall, so long as they continue to do so, be entitled to full and ample protection in person and property, though not connected with this organization, and shall be treated as friends, and not merely as persons neutral.

ARTICLE 34.

Neutrals.

The persons and property of all non-slaveholders who shall remain absolutely neutral, shall be respected so far as circumstances can allow of it; but they shall not be entitled to any active protection.

ARTICLE 35.

No Needless Destruction.

The needless waste or destruction of any useful property or article, by fire, throwing open of fences, fields, buildings, or needless killing of animals, or injury of either, shall be tolerated at any time or place, but shall be promptly and peremptorily punished

ARTICLE 36.

Property Confiscated.

The entire personal and real property of all persons known to be engaged in holding human beings as slaves for the enemy, or found in arms with them, or found willfully holding slaves, shall be confiscated and taken wherever and wherever it may be found, in either free or slave States.

Desertion.

Persons convicted on impartial trial of desertion to the enemy, after becoming members, acting as spies or treacherously surrendering property, arms, ammunition, provisions or supplies of any kind, roads, bridges, persons or fortifications, shall be put to death and their entire property confiscated.

ARTICLE 38.

Violation of Parole of Honor.

Persons proven to be guilty of holding up arms after having been set at liberty on parole of honor, or after the same to have taken any active part with or for the enemy, shall be put to death and their entire property confiscated.

ARTICLES 39, 40 AND 41

Require all to labor for the general good and prohibit immoral actions.

ARTICLE 42.

The Marriage Relation—Schools—The Sabbath.

Marriage relations shall be at all times respected, and families be kept together as far as possible, and broken families encouraged to reunite, and intelligent schools shall be established for that purpose. Schools and churches shall be established, and marriage may be for the sake of religious and other instructions, and the first day of the week shall be regarded as a day of rest and appropriate for moral and religious improvement; and to the relief of the suffering; the instruction of the young and ignorant, and the encouragement of personal cleanliness; and no person shall be required to work on this day for ordinary manual labor unless in extremely urgent cases.

ARTICLE 43.

To Carry Arms Openly.

All persons known to be of good character, and of sound mind and suitable age, who are connected with this organization, and who are able-bodied, shall be encouraged to carry arms openly.

ARTICLE 44.

No Person to carry Concealed Weapons.

No person within the limits of conquered territory, except regularly appointed policemen, express officers of the army, or those who are in the act of escorting passengers of the Congress, the President, Vice President, members of the Supreme Court, or commissioned officers of the army, and those who are in special circumstances, shall be allowed at any time to carry concealed weapons, and any person not specially authorized so to do who shall be found so, doing shall be deemed a suspicious person, and may at once be arrested by any officer, soldier or citizen, without the formality of a complaint or warrant, and may at once be subjected to thorough search, and shall have his or her case thoroughly investigated and be dealt with as circumstances may proof shall require.

ARTICLE 45.

Persons to be Seized.

GERRIT SMITH'S MANIFESTO.

The outrage and attendant circumstances are very curiously foreshadowed in the following letter of Gerrit Smith, directed in August last to the Chairman of the Jerry Rescuers:—

PETERBORO, August 27, 1859.

JOHN THOMAS, Esq., Syracuse, Chairman of Jerry Rescue Committee:—

MY DEAR SIR—I have this day received your letter inviting me to preside at the convention anniversary of the rescue of Jerry, and to prepare the papers for it. Thankful for the honor as I truly am, nevertheless I am constrained to decline it. I have resisted at all the anniversaries of this important event, and written the address adopted at each of them. But my interest in them has declined greatly within the last two years, and I feel I am now decidedly of the opinion that it is unwise to continue to repeat the force any longer.

The rescue of Jerry was a great and glorious event. Would to God it had been duly improved. But those who achieved it—and I include in this number all who sympathized with the rescuers, though they did nothing—have, with few exceptions, proved themselves unworthy of the work of their own hands. We delivered Jerry in the belief that we had the authority of the country, and, as most of us believed, in contempt also of a provision of the constitution itself. We delivered him, believing that there was no law and could be no law for thus doing. On occasion our humanity was up; and in vain would all the authorities on earth, even the Bible itself included, have sought to bring us to the conclusion that it was wrong, and so did it cling to him, that all the wealth of the world would not have sufficed to buy it off, or tempt it to ignore and betray him.

Oh, had the thousands, who on that memorable night crowded the streets of Syracuse, but maintained the spirit which belonged to which, they had the power to inspire them, what a force for the overthrow of slavery would they have not accumulated by this time! But they soon fell from it, and they soon came to be ashamed of their position and church parties. Jerry was forgotten. Their humanity was dead—for those parties are the grave of humanity—and they proceeded to crucify anew the man in his manhood lest—for in that proportion is he untrue to himself, to his brother and to God. That fay, alas how fearfully avenged! Jerry was shot in the head, and he willing to be held, to his individuality, shall witness an unspeakably better condition of things than does this, in which men such as parties, and such as the Southern Democracy, and in which the vagrancy and feebly felt responsibilities of party take the place of the definite and deeply conscious responsibilities of the individual. Yet Southern sympathies shall have risen to this higher plane of character, there will be Christians instead of Baptists, Methodists and Presbyterians, Democrats instead of republicans, democrats and Native Americans.

Of the thousands who, on the glorious night to which we have referred, were assembled to rescue Jerry, there probably not less than nineteen-twentieths fell immediately after under these ecclesiastical or political party influences which had prevailed between Syracuse and Canada. Of the thousands whose motto on that glorious night was: "No law for slavery," perhaps not a dozen have called on me to subscribe to it, or have, if they have, been strongly refused to vote for men who recognise a law for slavery. At each of our anniversaries the resolutions and speeches have discussed everything but Jerry, and in harmony with the high and holy principles on which Jerry was rescued. Nevertheless, the vast majority of those who rejoiced in the rescue have been willing to act with their pro-slavery parties in church and State.

"Jerry Rescuers" voting for men who acknowledge a law for slavery! I see not that this is basely inconsistent as are our temperance societies, forty-nine fiftieths of the members of which, whilst praising for "prohibition," vote for candidates who oppose it. Nobody always excepting an anniversary of the New York State Temperance Society, I do not know a greater or more pitiable exhibition of weakness, folly and wickedness than story of the rescue of Jerry.

By the way, I see that a gentleman of fine talents and high character, and marked ability as a writer, is called on to write the history of the temperance reformation. For, my part, I hope he rather that his history were hidden than published. Let it be faithfully written, that the great fact it will perpetuate—what had the infinitely disgraceful one then the temperance men, though ever ready to talk up and write up their cause, were as ready to vote it down? The cause of temperance in this country is dead. In our churches, in our temperance societies and temperance newspapers and temperance lecturers to galvanize it into life. Never was the one so dead and insensible, and never was the other so rapidly. All who have any discernment must see that i is this boundless inconsistency and unprincipledness all to bolster up a law which has fallen into disrepute and that I can never be revived by temperance societies and temperance newspapers and temperance lecturers that go for the election of rum sellers and rum drinkers and shameless hypocrites must give place to agencies characterized by sincerity and self-denial before temperance can come to life.

Oh, no, let not the history of either the temperance cause or the anti-slavery cause be written with the view of honoring their professed friends. Let the Bible been killed at the ballot box by those friends. If written at all, let it be with the purpose of warning the world against hypocrisies.

To return from this digression, let me, my friend, again say that we had better give up the celebration of the rescue of Jerry. The thing is over, and we are, and all times and under all circumstances to treat all such prisoners with every degree of respect and kindness that the nature of the circumstances will admit of, treating them as a like course of conduct from all others, as in fear of the Almighty God, to whose care and keeping we commit our cause.

ARTICLE 23.

Volunteers.

All persons who may come to us, and shall voluntarily deliver up slaves, and have their names registered on the books of this organization, shall, so long as they continue to do so, be entitled to full and ample protection in person and property, though not connected with this organization, and shall be treated as friends, and not merely as persons neutral.

ARTICLE 34.

Neutrals.

The persons and property of all non-slaveholders who shall remain absolutely neutral, shall be respected so far as circumstances can allow of it; but they shall not be entitled to any active protection.

ARTICLE 35.

No Needless Destruction.

The needless waste or destruction of any useful property or article, by fire, throwing open of fences, fields, buildings, or needless killing of animals, or injury of either, shall be tolerated at any time or place, but shall be promptly and peremptorily punished

ARTICLE 36.

Property Confiscated.

The entire personal and real property of all persons known to be engaged in holding human beings as slaves for the enemy, or found in arms with them, or found willfully holding slaves, shall be confiscated and taken wherever and wherever it may be found, in either free or slave States.

ARTICLE 37.

All persons known to be of good character, and of sound mind and suitable age, who are connected with this organization, and who are able-bodied, shall be encouraged to carry arms openly.

ARTICLE 44.

No Person to carry Concealed Weapons.

No person within the limits of conquered territory, except regularly appointed policemen, express officers of the army, those who are in the act of escorting passengers of the Congress, the President, Vice President, members of the Supreme Court, or commissioned officers of the army, and those who are in special circumstances, shall be allowed at any time to carry concealed weapons, and any person not specially authorized so to do who shall be found so, doing shall be deemed a suspicious person, and may at once be arrested by any officer, soldier or citizen, without the formality of a complaint or warrant, and may at once be subjected to thorough search, and shall have his or her case thoroughly investigated and be dealt with as circumstances proof shall require.

Persons to be Seized.

Persons living within the limits of territory hidden by this organization, and not connected with this organization, having arms at all, concealed or otherwise, shall be seized at once, or be taken in charge of by some vigilant officer, and their case thoroughly investigated, and it shall be the duty of all citizens and soldiers, as well as officers to arrest such parties as are named in this and the preceding section or article without formality of complaint or warrant, and the party shall be placed in charge of some proper officer for examination or for safe keeping.

What Had the Lelands to Do With the Concern?

Three Thousand Dollars for a Bank Charter.

Curious Operations in the Nutmeg State, &c., &c., &c.

Special Correspondence of the Herald.

COLCHESTER, CONN., Oct. 19, 1859.

To-day commenced the examination in the case of Warren Leland, of the Metropolitan Hotel, charged with divers misdemeanors, alleged to have resulted in defrauding the Colchester Bank of this place of the sum of $62,000. The prosecution did not close the case, but some of the allegations, it will be perceived, involve some of the most serious charges of sharp operations ever known in this country of such curious financial history. It is but fair to the accused to state, in the outset, that he claims that this prosecution is originated for the purpose of extorting blackmail.

The history of the trial of Samuel F. Jones, the cashier of the Colchester Bank, on a charge of defalcation, his astonishing escape from conviction, the sharp practice in the arrest of Mr. Leland, his giving bail for $40,000, and the comments of the press thereon, are fresh in the minds of the reading public, and need not be repeated here, especially as the evidence, as the trial proceeds, will disclose the relative position of the parties and the circumstances.

The investigation was commenced this afternoon before Justice Lamb, of this place, who issued the warrant for the arrest of Mr. Warren Leland, and several hundred spectators collected in the Town Hall from the surrounding country. The trial is quite a godsend to the dullness of this supernatanted town. The array of counsel is something of an indication of the importance of the case, there being three on each side. Messrs Starkweather, Hungerford and Hall, of Norwich, the prosecuting counsel of the bank, appeared for Mr. Jones, the prosecutor, the alleged defaulting cashier. Messrs. Wells, Chapman and Strong, of Hartford, the former counsel for Jones at the time of his trial, appeared on this occasion to defend Mr. Warren Leland.

Mr. Waite opened the case for the prosecution by reading the complaint, which set forth, with the customary verbosity of legal phraseology, the separate charges against Mr. Warren Leland, comprising allegations that he had stolen the blank notes of the Colchester Bank, with the intent to fill them up and circulate them; that he had filled up and passed these bills, and that he had conspired with various others to defraud the Colchester Bank.

The Justice, upon the reading of the complaint, asked Mr. Leland whether he plead guilty or not guilty, to which Mr. Leland replied, "Not guilty."

Mr. Starkweather then proceeded to make a statement for the prosecution. He said that they expected to prove that Warren Leland engaged in obtaining the charter of the Colchester Bank for the purpose of defrauding the honest stockholders and the public; that he had written letters before the charter was applied for in his own name, and under assumed names, stating that he was getting up the bank for the purpose of making money plunder, and would divide it among his back-men—referring to the operation from the first as his bank; that he subscribed for stock, but never paid a dollar; that he made arrangements with various parties to issue a large amount of over issue of the bank; that he sent fictitious notes, putting the names of other parties to them in his own handwriting; that he had been guilty of intentionally passing the bills of this bank, and filling them up and defrauding the bank; and that he was guilty of conspiracy in defrauding the bank of over $50,000, which he had now in his own hands.

Mr. Wells—How much?

Mr. Starkweather—Over fifty thousand dollars.

Mr. Strong—That is more money than the Bank ever had.

Mr. Starkweather—You are factotum and as to Warren Leland, and as to Simeon Leland.

Mr. Wells said that it was some news to him at any rate. He was under the impression that Warren was not Leland or Simeon's father. He considered the statements made by counsel as intended only for the public ear. He (Mr. Wells) assessed the charge as being, and intituted for the purpose of procuring black mail from the accused. He had in his pocket a release by the bank to Warren Leland, from all claims, &c., &c. Such stigmatizing whatsoever, which he would read, to show what claims the bank could have upon them. He then read the following:

For value received we, as receivers of the Colchester Bank, duly appointed, do hereby release and discharge Simeon Leland, Jonathan Leland and Warren Leland, of the State of New York, individually and as members of the firm of Simeon Leland & Co., and Leland & Simeon Leland & Co., from all claims and demands and causes of action which the Colchester Bank has or ever had, in our said capacity of receivers, against the firm of Leland & Co., and against the ownership of Simeon Leland & Co. Dated at Norwich this 29th day of July, 1859. Witness our hands the day and year aforesaid. [L.S.] H. H. STARKWEATHER,
[L.S.] W. HUNGERFORD,
Receivers of the Colchester Bank.

He therefore looked upon all the statements made as intended only for the public ear, for the purpose of the community, and perhaps to influence the minds of the jurors of the county. He intimated that Mr. Starkweather had been engaged in the prosecution of Samuel F. Jones.

A long discussion here ensued as to which of the counsel had written for the newspapers, and after many hard insinuations was to the effect that Mr. Starkweather thought the prosecution would have claimed the services of Mr. Warren Leland had anything to do with getting the charter of the bank; that he was the leading spirit in the formation of the Legislature; that Mr. Leland could have been in much more profitable business than in stealing the notes of the Colchester Bank; that the other parties to the alleged conspiracy, if they existed, ought to be named; that the charge was untrue in its details and its generalities, and that before the investigation was concluded it would be seen that another man than Mr. Leland was responsible for the disordered state of the bank affairs.

The witnesses for the prosecution were then called and sworn in a body, according to the custom of the State of Connecticut.

The prosecution put in evidence the charter of the bank, and the subscriptions and organization of the bank, the defense objecting.

ASTONISHING TESTIMONY OF CASHIER JONES.

Samuel F. Jones, the former cashier of the Colchester Bank, who was prosecuted by the bank for defalcation, and not convicted, was the first witness called for the prosecution. He testified: I reside near Bye Island, New York; my place is the town of Harrison; I was the cashier of the Colchester Bank; was appointed October, 1856, and continued cashier until the 15th of July following; I assisted in organizing the charter; before the Legislature (defence objected) Warren Leland and Simeon Leland were connected with me in obtaining this charter; the act of 1855 or the act of 1856 I became acquainted with Warren Leland, he having married a cousin of my wife; afterwards became acquainted with Simeon and Charles; there had been business relations between myself and the Leland's before the organization of the Colchester Bank; I had a conversation with Warren Leland, in which he spoke about organizing a bank; he asked me whether I could procure a charter for the bank; I said I could; I said possibly I might, it was a little out of my line.

Q. Did he say anything about the Colchester Bank? Defence objected to this evidence as irrelevant, and after extended argument, in which the defence claimed that no evidence could be received in reference to the charter of the bank and procuring the charter, the Court admitted the line of inquiry.

Mr. Jones identified a letter received from Mr. Leland, March 12, 1856, which the prosecution proposed to read.

Defence objected, that the date was prior to the formation of the bank, and as to the charter, it was no proof that the bank could not be defrauded before it was in existence.

The Court overruled the objection in a very hard decision, which would be worthy of the gentleman who spoke of "comprehending these vagrom men." The witness Jones identified the letter by an illustration commencing as follows:—"If two men conspire together and enter into an agreement, sell a horse,—" The Counsel, Mr. Wells, objected to the introduction of the illustration, noted an exception, and the case proceeded.

The following letter was then offered in evidence, and after being examined, discussed and objected to, was admitted by the learned Court.

CURIOUS LETTER OF AN ALLEGED BANK ORIGINATOR.

METROPOLITAN HOTEL, March 12 ten years.

WARREN JONES—I have received your letter, and am much pleased at the prospect of getting up a bank in Colchester. I think a bank such as you describe can be commenced with as early date as October. Yes, I think it would be quite easy for us to get up a charter from the Legislature. I do not know but it may be necessary to go to Hartford to do the business, or at least to see the commissioners to obtain their direct but you are well acquainted through the State you can carry it through with more ease than I. It is a property that will be worth money, it is a privilege that should only be granted to persons of the highest character, and it will be worth a fortune of wealth. It is a privilege that must be carefully and judiciously managed, and I think we can do it. I think we can do some day and find that they had in their pockets w it printed for publication in the newspapers, and that the Legislature had in the selection of the men in Colchester that are to receive this important and valuable trust, you may select men that are perfectly honest, and that would be satisfactory. Yours truly, WARREN LELAND.

The following was admitted after a similar prosecution.

NICE PLAN FOR EASY GAINS.

METROPOLITAN HOTEL, April 4, 1856.

DEAR FRIEND—I got the charter, and I have delayed a day or so more than I expected, but I had important business to attend to before I could come to Hartford and get it. This is not but one thing that I can see that I would alter, and that is the part relating to the bank. I think it would be better for you to get in gold, or silver, or bills of specie paying banks." If they pass it in this form it would be valuable to us, or a convenience to us. If they should strike out the part relating to the bank-bill you will to any advantage to us. If they should strike out the bank clause it would be valuable to us, and just as much to the people. Please look at it? the laws pertaining to banking in your State. I should like to have the charter so that it would be for you to get them in change. I want to be posted. I hope to see you here often, and I want to understand that you are not to pay or offer to pay. We are engaged in an enterprise for the benefit of all when we obtain the charter. We are to share equally, and then we shall better understand each other's views, and I will tell you that the cost of the charter, including all, cost me one half of all the expenses and time. I merely mention these things because I think it should be understood. Yours truly, WARREN LELAND.

P. S.—I shall send the charter by express—it should get there by to-morrow night. Yours, W. L.

Endorsed thus:

Mr. Jones' counsel explained that the reason to be so! Signed for Mr. Warren Leland's exception to his draft of the charter might be apprehended from the fact that, while the proposed amendment was in bills of other banks than those in the State of Connecticut could be received.

Examination resumed—Q. Who paid for the expenses of getting the charter? A. I paid by my own money; I handed over the money to the parties in the case.

Q. From whom did you receive it? A. Warren Leland furnished me with the money (one half I furnished); there was an expense of getting the charter through.

Q. What for? A. For log-rolling the Colchester Bank charter through the Legislature.

Q. What other letters from Mr. Warren Leland have you in your possession? A. About a hundred and fifty; I have some more here.

Q. What other letters have you? refer to them. A. There is not one in a hundred dated, with no date; it is in his handwriting; I cannot tell the date.

[MYSTERIOUS PAPER.]

DEAR SIR—Yours of Monday come to hand this afternoon. I shall go down to the express in the morning. Dunham is here again, but I have not seen him. I think he will be here to-day round this week. Shall go there this afternoon, and leave for the East in the morning. I shall send up some more paper—see everything is strong—I shall write you. Yours truly, WARREN.

Q. What do you know about that letter? A. I do know of many that were written to me in pursuance of an agreement to furnish "paper;" there was "paper" furnished by Lelands, Jones, Starkweather, Dunham, and for various amounts; sometimes for large amounts; I always called it "bogus paper."

Q. Did you know it was manufactured paper.

Q. Who manufactured it? A. It was in the handwriting of Warren Leland, most of it.

Q. Examine these notes and state what you know of them. A. These notes were obtained by me from the Bank at the time of my resignation, in the month of September. When Warren Leland and myself meant by "bogus paper" was genuine paper signed by irresponsible parties, manufactured for Belknap Leland, the makers of which and endorsers of which were fictitious.

Q. In whose handwriting was the "bogus paper?" A. It was generally in the handwriting of Warren and Simeon Leland—most all of it, but much of it.

Mr. Jones then proceeded to describe this bogus paper, in a manner not intelligible to the reporter, and read from a note dated August 16, 1857, going to make up the assets of the Colchester Bank, to take up certain other notes: I took it to the Bank and it was discounted. It is for $1,000. It is to the order of McBride & Williams, and signed George W. Hess Jr.; I do not know the handwriting on it; I do not know the handwriting on the endorsement of Warren Leland; I do not know such a concern as McBride & Williams.

Q. Did Mr. Leland say, or not, that this was fictitious paper? A. He did, sir.

Q. How was the first installment on the capital stock made? A. It was made by the Lelands, Jones and others, and the Commissioners appointed to distribute the stock; it was paid in gold and silver, and bills of specie paying banks in this State and Connecticut. The money in the bank was paid by the stockholders of Colchester and other parts of the State, some by me, or by men who did their business for me; we had some arrangements with parties to discounte certain stock from certain other stock.

Q. What proportion was paid by Mr. Leland? A. About one-quarter of the stock; $16,000 was paid in, I mean; I can tell by my book to a dollar.

Q. How about the second instalment? A. The bank was organized, and the second instalment was paid by the charge of the directors; they called a meeting, and ordered every per cent more paid in the end of thirty days—the first was paid in March, 1856, and the second (20,000) that was paid in in this way:—it was necessary to have something in my hands to show the Bank Commissioners that I had the money to pay in the stock; I got a bank certificate of deposit of J. S. Swan, of New York, for $20,000, and I paid it over to Mr. Leland and he wrote and a note with G. F. Bellows as the maker and endorser; I think they sent me the notes of S. Leland & Co. signed by Richard Conlan, and I paid it in bank; I have a receipt required; those are here and not all used; matters stood that way until the 24 of December, when the last installment was paid in in precisely the same way; I put it in, it was necessary to have $50,000 in all, and Leland sent me notes of various kinds—some of S. Leland & Co., and some; that I was to make arrangements to have the money put in the handwriting of Warren Leland, and part were genuine notes with bogus endorsements; they were sent to me and the money paid over to Leland's barkeeper, and one or two by his porter.

Q. And these notes represented part of the capital stock? A. Yes, sir. Q. Do you know about Leland's quarters: these notes were for different sums, dated all over Christendom—or all over the United States—some at Chicago, St. Louis, Cincinnati, and New York.

NICE WAY TO MEET NOTES.

Q. As these notes became due, how were they met? A. The notes were paid by Warren Leland, Simeon Leland & Co.; as they became due they were taken up by S. Leland & Co., and new notes sent up, which notes were discounted in a similar way; I put them in the bank; they went through the Suffolk Bank, Leland & Co. took them up; I bought these notes from the bank and paid for them in the bank; the notes were in the bank; I have the receipt; my impression is that it was $62,000 that I took up; some of them were signed Jones & Co., and some of them for $8,000, dated December, 1856, at Syracuse, signed R. G. Field and endorsed by Mr. Little; that is a note that was discounted; there is a note for $1,000, signed by Richard Conlan, and endorsed by Mr. Leland; there is a note that was made payable to Leland & Co., and endorsed by Leland & Co.; there is a note for $1,500, signed by Richard Conlan, an Irishman in the employ of Mr. Leland, endorsed by Colton Leland & Co., payable to Mr. Leland, and endorsed by Mr. Jones is in my handwriting, by my father's authority; we often laughed at the large discounts of Colton & Leland; there was a note for $1,000, signed by 20,1857, for $1,156, signed E. H. Woodman & Co., and endorsed A. R. Garfield; another is dated Salem, Wis., April 20, 1857, for $1,825, signed by Belknap Leland, Jr., run, drawn by John K. Calvert, a man in the employ of Warren Leland, and endorsed by L. Schmidt & Co. Another is dated Chicago, April 20, 1857, for $1,825, drawn by R. H. Murphy, an Irishman in the employ of Mr. Warren Leland, and endorsed by Schmidt & Co., and by Mr. Jones; I think I don't know anything about. Another is for $1,825, dated Chicago, April 25, 1857, drawn by Richard Conlan, and endorsed by Colton Leland & Co., and by Mr. Jones; and endorsed John S. Jones in my own handwriting; and endorsed F. P. Sharpe, by him ordered to be paid to Ed. Leland & Co. Another is for $1,000, signed Cincinnati Bank; no endorsement of payment. Another for $2,000, dated Harrisburg, December 20, drawn by Robert Loonard, payable to Mr. Leland, and endorsed by Jones; Richard Conlan, endorsed Colton & Mead in the handwriting of Warren Leland. Another is payable to Leland & Co., and endorsed by Leland & Co. Another is drawn by James E. Clark, $1,160, dated Chicago, August, 1857, in the handwriting of Leland, endorsed Long & Henry, in the handwriting of Leland. Another note to Robert Leonard, dated Dayton, Ohio, June 24, 1857, for $1,250, payable to the order of Lee & Smith, in Leland's handwriting. Another is $1,000, with Hull, Thompson & Co., name in Warren Leland's handwriting. Then comes another of $1,000, drawn by Richard Conlan, endorsed by Colton & Mead, in the handwriting of Warren Leland. Another payable to order of Ramsdall & Hodgkins, in the handwriting of Warren Leland. One given by Michael Lamb for $1,011, payable to the order of Colton & Mead, in the handwriting of Warren Leland.

Q. These are the notes that were sent to you to fill up? A. They are notes of different dates. Here is a note signed Simeon Leland & Co., not filled up, the signature is genuine; also one, signed Horace V. Wilcox. The signature is genuine; the handwriting, I think, is Warren's. That note was intended to be used for any purpose I saw fit. In plain words, to humbug the Legislature and get the charter, and I succeeded in getting it for them. Here is a note signed in blank, and endorsed S. Leland & Co., in S. Leland's handwriting, and two more of the same kind, in Leland's handwriting. Another for $855, one for $750, one for $1,654, signed C. P. Whitcomb, one of Leland's employes—a barkeeper, I think; one for $1,000, signed by Jones & Co., endorsed by McKee and Herd; in Warren Leland's writing; another dated Salem, Wisconsin, drawn by John K. Calvert for $1,550 and endorsed by Warren Leland and Schmidt & Co. Leland wrote to me in obtaining this charter; he met me at Albany in the year of 1856 I became acquainted with Warren Leland, he having married a cousin of my wife; afterwards became acquainted with Simeon and Charles; there had been business relations between myself and the Leland's before the organization of the Colchester Bank; I had a conversation with Warren Leland, in which he spoke about organizing a bank; he asked me whether I could procure a charter for the bank; I said I could; I said possibly I might, it was a little out of my line.

Q. Did he say anything about the Colchester Bank? Defence objected to this evidence as irrelevant, and after extended argument, in which the defence claimed that no evidence could be received in reference to the charter of the bank and procuring the charter, the Court admitted the line of inquiry.

Mr. Jones identified a letter received from Mr. Leland, March 12, 1856, which the prosecution proposed to read.

Defence objected, that the date was prior to the formation of the bank, and as to the charter, it was no proof that the bank could not be defrauded before it was in existence.

The Court overruled the objection in a very hard decision, which would be worthy of the gentleman who spoke of "comprehending these vagrom men." The witness Jones identified the letter by an illustration commencing as follows:—"If two men conspire together and enter into an agreement, sell a horse,—" The counsel, Mr. Wells, objected to the introduction of the illustration, noted an exception, and the case proceeded.

The following letter was then offered in evidence, and after being examined, discussed and objected to, was admitted by the learned Court.

[MYSTERIOUS LETTER.]

METROPOLITAN HOTEL, March 12 ten years.

WARREN JONES—I have received your letter, and am much pleased at the prospect of getting up a bank in Colchester. I think a bank such as you describe can be commenced with as early date as October. Yes, I think it would be quite easy for us to get up a charter from the Legislature. I do not know but it may be necessary to go to Hartford to do the business, or at least to see the commissioners to obtain their direct but you are well acquainted through the State you can carry it through with more ease than I. It is a property that will be worth money, it is a privilege that should only be granted to persons of the highest character, and it will be worth a fortune of wealth. It is a privilege that must be carefully and judiciously managed, and I think we can do it. I think we can do some day and find that they had in their pockets w it printed for publication in the newspapers, and that the Legislature had in the selection of the men in Colchester that are to receive this important and valuable trust, you may select men that are perfectly honest, and that would be satisfactory. Yours truly, WARREN LELAND.

P. S.—I shall send the charter by express—it should get there by to-morrow night. Yours, W. L.

Endorsed thus:

Mr. Jones' counsel explained that the reason to be so! Signed for Mr. Warren Leland's exception to his draft of the charter might be apprehended from the fact that, while the proposed amendment was in bills of other banks than those in the State of Connecticut could be received.

Examination resumed—Q. Who paid for the expenses of getting the charter? A. I paid by my own money; I handed over the money to the parties in the case.

Q. From whom did you receive it? A. Warren Leland furnished me with the money (one half I furnished); there was an expense of getting the charter through.

Q. What for? A. For log-rolling the Colchester Bank charter through the Legislature.

Q. What other letters from Mr. Warren Leland have you in your possession? A. About a hundred and fifty; I have some more here.

Q. What other letters have you? refer to them. A. There is not one in a hundred dated, with no date; it is in his handwriting; I cannot tell the date.

[MYSTERIOUS PAPER.]

DEAR SIR—Yours of Monday come to hand this afternoon. I shall go down to the express in the morning. Dunham is here again, but I have not seen him. I think he will be here to-day round this week. Shall go there this afternoon, and leave for the East in the morning. I shall send up some more paper—see everything is strong—I shall write you. Yours truly, WARREN.

Q. What do you know about that letter? A. I do know of many that were written to me in pursuance of an agreement to furnish "paper;" there was "paper" furnished by Lelands, Jones, Starkweather, Dunham, and for various amounts; sometimes for large amounts; I always called it "bogus paper."

Q. Did you know it was manufactured paper.

Q. Who manufactured it? A. It was in the handwriting of Warren Leland, most of it.

Q. Examine these notes and state what you know of them. A. These notes were obtained by me from the Bank at the time of my resignation, in the month of September. When Warren Leland and myself meant by "bogus paper" was genuine paper signed by irresponsible parties, manufactured for Belknap Leland, the makers of which and endorsers of which were fictitious.

Q. In whose handwriting was the "bogus paper?" A. It was generally in the handwriting of Warren and Simeon Leland—most all of it, but much of it.

Mr. Jones then proceeded to describe this bogus paper, in a manner not intelligible to the reporter, and read from a note dated August 16, 1857, going to make up the assets of the Colchester Bank, to take up certain other notes: I took it to the Bank and it was discounted. It is for $1,000. It is to the order of McBride & Williams, and signed George W. Hess Jr.; I do not know the handwriting on it; I do not know the handwriting on the endorsement of Warren Leland; I do not know such a concern as McBride & Williams.

Q. Did Mr. Leland say, or not, that this was fictitious paper? A. He did, sir.

Q. How was the first installment on the capital stock made? A. It was made by the Lelands, Jones and others, and the Commissioners appointed to distribute the stock; it was paid in gold and silver, and bills of specie paying banks in this State and Connecticut. The money in the bank was paid by the stockholders of Colchester and other parts of the State, some by me, or by men who did their business for me; we had some arrangements with parties to discounte certain stock from certain other stock.

Q. What proportion was paid by Mr. Leland? A. About one-quarter of the stock; $16,000 was paid in, I mean; I can tell by my book to a dollar.

Q. How about the second instalment? A. The bank was organized, and the second instalment was paid by the charge of the directors; they called a meeting, and ordered every per cent more paid in the end of thirty days—the first was paid in March, 1856, and the second (20,000) that was paid in in this way:—it was necessary to have something in my hands to show the Bank Commissioners that I had the money to pay in the stock; I got a bank certificate of deposit of J. S. Swan, of New York, for $20,000, and I paid it over to Mr. Leland and he wrote and a note with G. F. Bellows as the maker and endorser; I think they sent me the notes of S. Leland & Co. signed by Richard Conlan, and I paid it in bank; I have a receipt required; those are here and not all used; matters stood that way until the 24 of December, when the last installment was paid in in precisely the same way; I put it in, it was necessary to have $50,000 in all, and Leland sent me notes of various kinds—some of S. Leland & Co., and some; that I was to make arrangements to have the money put in the handwriting of Warren Leland, and part were genuine notes with bogus endorsements; they were sent to me and the money paid over to Leland's barkeeper, and one or two by his porter.

Q. And these notes represented part of the capital stock? A. Yes, sir. Q. Do you know about Leland's quarters: these notes were for different sums, dated all over Christendom—or all over the United States—some at Chicago, St. Louis, Cincinnati, and New York.

NICE WAY TO MEET NOTES.

Q. As these notes became due, how were they met? A. The notes were paid by Warren Leland, Simeon Leland & Co.; as they became due they were taken up by S. Leland & Co., and new notes sent up, which notes were discounted in a similar way; I put them in the bank; they went through the Suffolk Bank, Leland & Co. took them up; I bought these notes from the bank and paid for them in the bank; the notes were in the bank; I have the receipt; my impression is that it was $62,000 that I took up; some of them were signed Jones & Co., and some of them for $8,000, dated December, 1856, at Syracuse, signed R. Another is payable to Leland & Co., and endorsed by Leland & Co. Another is drawn by James E. Clark, $1,160, dated Chicago, August, 1857, in the handwriting of Leland, endorsed Long & Henry, in the handwriting of Leland. The Troubles at Pekin—Expected Cessation of Business—Satisfactory Conclusion of Mr. Ward's Mission—Deplorable Condition of the American Consulate in China, &c., &c.

It is probable that we may, in a few months, have some trouble here, and perhaps a total cessation of business for the time being, in consequence of the troubles at the North. Pekin will only be temporary, and business will be carried on more vigorously afterwards. The trouble may be is still a matter of uncertainty, owing to the hostile appearance of affairs in Europe, but that it will be certain, from the well known energy with which England follows up her conquests and interests in these parts.

We have heard nothing further from the north that is considered certain, but the rumor is that Mr. Ward, our Minister, has been well received by the Chinese and exchanged treaties with them, and has, in fact, satisfactorily concluded his mission. But his success is said to have been a roundabout and cringing manner, is not envied him in the least by his fellow countrymen. It is certainly mortifying to the American to notice the contrast between the attitude of the British and American governments in the management of their affairs in China. The English do everything in a magnificent, lateral style, while the American interests are protected in a cheap, small and paltry ridiculous manner. The English Consulate, for instance in Shanghai, consists of a large force, occupying a large establishment, with the grounds, &c.—everything being seen to in the most liberal and magnificent style. Consul occupies one or two rooms in a one horse public tavern, surrounded by two or three Chinese attendants, making errands, and doing subordinate duties. In all this part of the world will the dignity of his nation. The harbors of all the eastern ports swarm with English men-of-war, while one or three idle American vessels are seen no peking about, with hardly any power whatever. The English ambassadors come out here empowered by their government to do anything or carry any thing to protect the interests, even if force is necessary; while the poor American drawer back from danger, crying "I've no power" to do so and so. It is really pitiful to see a man, who all himself an American in this part of the world, much as it is to be regretted. How long it may be before a change will be made in these matters we cannot tell, but it will not be, certainly, until men of standing and position superseded the worthless politicians that now rule the destinies of the United States. These latter are not fit even to be looked upon as American until he has been out here, or any where where American interests are protected through the instrumentality of political appointees.

SHANGHAI, July 31, 1859.

Another Expected Outbreak—Embarkation of the Foreign Residents on the Vessels in the Harbor—Arming and Loading of Marines, &c.

We had a stirring time of it last night. It appears that things looked so hostile here that the Consuls issued orders for all ships in the harbor to be ready to leave at a moment's notice, and to make all defensive preparations in their power; which was done. Yesterday a large force of marines was landed and sent up to the scene of the disturbance, and the Chinese authorities came into the settlement with a large force for an interview with the Consuls. It was supposed that after this interview everything would be quiet again. I took a long walk, after dinner, and found everything wearing a remarkable appearance of quiet. I went home, while reading in my room, Mr. W., who had been writing in his office, came in, and said that he had heard some very suspicious noises going on; so we sallied forth. On reaching the principal street we found everything in the highest state of excitement, and Shanghai was all bustling from the Chinese city, indicating that several thousand men were under arms, and the report was that they were about to attack the foreigners. The Consuls had advised to prepare themselves for war, and to look out for their families. So we hurried back; and getting the ladies and children together, proceeded down to the "where boats were in readiness to convey them aboard a man-of-war. We then turned to our own defence. I was about, with a body of volunteers, to go up the street, but it was a big danger to the other, while I carried on my shoulder my rifle, heavily loaded with buck shot. Every body appeared in the same attitude of defence, armed in the most conceivable manner, and all determined to sell their lives dearly. All the white a terrible shouting and firing was going on among the Chinamen up the street, and we expected an attack momentarily. Five of marines were landed from the men-of-war, and they, too, went up stream, so as to protect the shipping, which was thought to be in danger from the junks. At last we were on as secure a basis as the nature of the place would allow, and we commenced to look around us more calmly. I took a long patrol with a party for the purpose of seeking the spot where the trouble might first be discovered, but found no things gradually getting more quiet. We returned, and about two o'clock it appeared as if the Chinamen had concluded to quit operations for the night. At two, we went quietly quieted down, the ladies returned ashore, and most of the people retired to their homes, but a strong guard was kept up all night.

This morning, on making inquiries, we found that we had all been laboring under a misapprehension, and that the affair was merely a quarrel between the people and the Chinese; with no hostile intentions toward the foreigners. This is the Chinese account, but everybody continues on their guard, fearing that the Chinese, who appeared to have worked the Chinamen up to a high pitch of indignation, and that they may make an attack upon us at any moment. Only the present force, or a portion of it, will be left, and we may be able to maintain our ground, even if we have to do some hard fighting. Rather like the thing myself, having nothing particular to lose and a lot to gain, and wanted to look around us more calmly. Attempted Reopening of the Coolie Trade—Outrage by a French Ship—Assaults by the Chinese on Foreign Residents in Consequence—Quiet Restored, &c., &c.

Last week we have had some extraordinary proceedings here. It appears that a French ship, anchored at the mouth of the river, desirous of getting a cargo of coolies (which trade has been stopped), sent a gang of men into town, who for several days and nights have been seizing any Chinaman that came along, and putting him into a bag and conveying him aboard ship. The Chinese becoming enraged at this really outrageous proceeding, have retaliated, and not knowing one foreigner from another, have commenced a new system of outrage. The reign residents here, so that it is really dangerous for a man to leave the house except he be heavily armed, and ready to take what measures may appear to be called for take place. Last evening the Collector of the port was seriously stabbed, the minister of the leading church had been shot, and several others wounded, and two Chinese were killed. A file of marines was sent ashore from a man-of-war lying in the harbor last night, but no further hostilities took place. The French vessel, I hear, has been seized, and should have summary punishment. I have to sleep with my gun loaded close by me, and shall take to get a revolver, as it is a very unpleasant position in which we now find ourselves. However, it may become all quiet again in a few days. At present everybody is in a state of excitement, and the coolies are in a state of fear of their houses, fearful of being kidnapped, and the foreigners are also wary of going out for fear of Chinese assassins. It would be unsafe, I should think, for a lady to walk a quarter of a mile towards the Chinese town at present.

Chinese Rejoicings for Victory—Danger to Foreigners—One Hundred American Troops Landed, and Navy Guns Loaded—Very Intense Excitement and a Great Battle Looked for, &c.

I have just time left, and take the opportunity to say to you, by the mail that leaves here to-morrow morning, that since my letter, dated yesterday, was closed, affairs have assumed quite a serious aspect. Day before yesterday the old city of Shanghae and Woosung was decorated off with thousands of flags of all fanciful colors and descriptions, and the Chinese have had a grand public rejoicing over the success of their arms at Peiho; and boasts have been made to the effect that all foreigners, of all nations, should leave the place or be beheaded. Last Madam Rumor says that two Americans had been killed there.

Yesterday morning the Consul and other Americans sent a message down to Woosung, calling upon Capt. Nicholson for his protection. We got ready for action, and the land side suited we proceeded up to this port. We have our marines and three divisions of small arms, and our two howitzers, all in readiness to fire upon the Chinese make any assault upon Americans or their property.

We have just landed one hundred armed men to protect the Americans on shore. Our guns are loaded, and everything prepared to give the Chinese a warm reception. The French ship that caused the difficulty has been taken in custody by the Consul, and we have a strong element that it is impossible for me to write more. The next mail will bring you the sad tidings of bloodshed.

HALF PAST 7 P. M.

Having canvassing near the old city. We are all armed to the teeth. No boat allowed to approach the ship. The streets are full of soldiers, carrying on an assault against all foreigners. Look for my next with great interest, as if I am spared I will send you a full account.

OUR HONG KONG CORRESPONDENCE.

HONG KONG, August 9, 1859.

Chinese Look of Affairs for European Interests—Fear Very Injuriously Affected by the New War—How the Nations Mind Results in the Defeat of the Allies—Does the Enter Hall Preaching and Policy Serve England' Out Said—Grand Fun of Diplomacy, but Bad Results to Civilized Governments—The Americans Attacked by Chinese Cutlery—Russian Influence and Aid—The Coolie Trade Outrages at Shanghae.

Greatly speaking, it may be said that at no time for the past three years have Chinese affairs appeared in more confusion. "Commercially, perhaps," the reader may ask, "never been darker! The last mail bore words to the history of the strange manner in which the Chinese received the English and French Ambassadors, and of the emphasis with which the treaties were ratified at the mouth of the Peiho. It would seem as though the Chinese, not understanding our language, mistook the term ratification for annihilation, and certainly the error was fearfully carried out. A more utter and overwhelming defeat was never experienced by any party in any late war, and the effects of it are already apparent upon the Chinese mind.

If, however, it may serve to put a stop to the Exeter Hall twaddle, in England about, China being at last thrown "open to commerce and the Gospel" And to the strain of correspondence and remark, which prevails in a spoiled and fretful Bull, Bear, Lion, perhaps the present lesson may not be without use. It is only necessary to repeat the opinion expressed by your correspondent months ago, that the Chinese, if pushed, would give these influences now that it was eight years ago. This is an excellent field for diplomacy—an excellent diplomatic ground, where Commissioners, Ambassadors, Minister to see the country, have a good time, purchased "curios," and thus receive reward for political services rendered in an electioneering country. Perhaps, unless the public dinner at which the returned diplomat relates his triumphs is very specially celebrated, the public will not hear of the Lord Elgin and Baron Gros, C. B., second in command in China! COALING THE ALLIED NAVIES AND ITS EFFECTS ON TRADE.

The subjoined, on the subject of the freight market, is from the circular of Messrs. Seymour, Peacock & Co., of London:—

The disastrous news from China, which reached England on the 12th ultimo, exercised an immediate influence on freights to the East, and for coals to China an advance took place on the 14th, when the Government, the British and French governments intended fitting out, and dispatching a large body of troops forthwith, and an enormous demand for steamers, and sailing vessels, with a corresponding advance in freight; but this actual business has comparatively fallen considerably short of the expectations of our friends, the Government has invited tenders for the small steamers, but they have refused all the offers made, and are shipping from the French ports, the surplus stock accumulated during the Italian war. The expeditionary force intended for the English government has been limited to three vessels for steerers to Hong Kong, viz., Westminster, Lucelles and Pierre Canile, at 45s. 6d. per ton, and the French government have taken 15 of the Napoleons, which measures about 50 feet by 12 to the beam. A further quantity of about 900 tons will be tendered for on Tuesday next, and the Government will be coals to China from Sunderland or Cardiff to Shanghae, and a moderate amount of tonnage may still be chartered at 65s. to 70s. per ton, but the Government have taken a good portion of Shanghae at 65s.; The Peninsular and Oriental Company invited tenders on Monday last for about 5,000 tons, coals, to be shipped from Sunderland to Hong Kong, and bids made were declined, although tenders were put in as low as 58s. 6d. per ton, including cost, freight and insurance. Freights have fluctuated considerably since the outbreak of the war, and the Government have had to force to preserve order. Of course this state of affairs has produced a great deal of extended operations in trade. The amount of shipping and tonnage is slightly increased since last writing, amounting to one hundred vessels of all sizes.

UPPER STATE SHIP POWHATAN,
Yantsin, July 1, 1859.

Minister Ward's Progress to Peking—Latest Authentic Intelligence—The British Commander Remonstrating with the American Minister.

We were greatly hurried with our letters yesterday, and now have another opportunity of writing in time to catch the mail. I have nothing of importance to send in letter. The news is quite important, and will not reach any other journal, I think. I cannot understand the present attitude of affairs, and cannot understand how it can be able to give light, perhaps, after our visit to Peking, which now seems indefinitely. Messrs. Bruce & Bourboulon have been ordered to Peking, and Mr. Ward (the former yesterday, 5th), in a friendly manner with Mr. Bruce. The object being to deter him from going to Peking. Of course he will not go, but the Chinese may have changed whenever it can be accomplished with dignity on our parts.

Another opportunity to catch the mail enables me to add the news of the first day.

Friday, 1st—Yesterday that our "junk" was getting along very slowly, and feeling confident that she had a communication from the Gov. General, we got up steam on the Powhatan and proceeded down to Tang Ku, 14 m., she was brought alongside, and two white hall Mandarins came on board in company with Mr. Martin, the interpreter. The latter stated that he had a letter from Gov. General Hung, of which the following is the result.

Gov. General Hung had received the letter of the Amiral Chinese Minister, and had sent a messenger down seven miles to the north of the Peiho forts to meet our party day that he, Mr. Ward, might select. There he would be met by a Mandarin of high rank, and letters would be exchanged, and after that he would be escorted to Peking, there to deliver the President's letter to the Emperor in person. It goes down to Peking, and we expect to be at Peking. The English Minister and several of the squadron return to Shanghai to-day.

OPINIONS OF A CHINESE OFFICIAL ON THE FOREIGN TREATIES.

A document possessing a certain amount of interest has been published in the Pekin Gazette. It is addressed by a Chinese official, Tseng Kuo Fan, to the Emperor, and is at the following paragraph appear:—

"The conditions of peace, it has been lately reported, are merely nominal, and the Barbarians, in the articles of peace, that providing indemnity for war expenses. That is to say, that China, the mighty empire of Ta-Tsing, is to be compelled to pay the indemnity demanded by the Barbarians, but to command it, and she shall tender them her hands or her cities. But of the clauses which are most pernicious, the most important, are those which relate to the establishment of a residence (lit. hall), in the capital, trade up the rivers in the interior, and the propagation of religion in the provinces. The hearts of those who have heard it burn with vexation. Every one knows, yes even to the women and children, that it ought not to be.

"If we are really unable to fight, we should yield, and to offer them opposition afterwards, they will be in the right and we in the wrong. And who will choose, in of the times, to incur the blame of the people?

There is another contingency. Once the barbarians have the treaty they demand, they will possibly not wait until the ratification of the exchange of ratifications, but in the interior, will be taking up their ground in every place, making common cause with the rebels, secretly co-operating with them, or, failing this, they will, on the ground of their account, and having got the victory, will come forward with other important requisitions; or, failing this, will seize the Imperial City, and, in the meantime, the rebels, they have not taken them from us. In so many ways may we prize our hands.

Sang-ko-lin-sin is a redoubtable force; he is well versed in war, offensive and defensive; were he to rouse himself, the rebellious barbarians would be crushed. In the late collision between the Tien-tsin forts and the barbarians, the barbarians feared to meet them.

LORD ELGIN'S TREATY—THE DIPLOMATIC RESIDENCE

[From the (London) China Telegraph, Sept. 27.]

The whole of the disastrous defeat at the Peiho proceeded from the Elgin Treaty, upon the articles of which our readers' memories by quoting it in its amended form—His Majesty the Emperor of China hereby agrees that the accredited Minister of Her Majesty the Queen of Great Britain, may reside with his family and establishment permanently at the capital of the Empire, or visit it occasionally, at the option of the British government.

Lord Elgin had advised, at the urgent request of the Chinese government, the insertion of the phrase "occasional visits" to Pekin, should alone be insisted on.

In reference to the Canton indemnity clause of the treaty, Lord Elgin wrote:

Among the difficult questions which I had to resolve at Tien-tsin, no one gave me so much anxiety and annoyance as that of the indemnity to be demanded from the Chinese government in name of indemity. From a very early period in these negotiations both Baron Gros and I satisfied ourselves that it would be the duty of attempt to extract money directly from the Imperial government in the north. Everything that we saw around us indicated the impotence of the central government. Nothing could be more miserable than the state of the high officers of the Imperial government with whom we came in contact. The troops called out to defend the capital were such as we had no reason to believe, unpaid. Under these circumstances we came to the conclusion that, on practical grounds, and apart from certain considerations of morality and justice, which might perhaps have been urged on behalf of the Chinese government, it would be unwise to drive it to extremities, which, in the present state of affairs, would have resulted in our being putting forward pecuniary claims which it could entirely only by resorting to measures that would increase the unpopularity, and, consequently, the weakness of the empire. The power of passive endurance is not wanting to the Chinese character, and it was to be feared that the Imperial Government would have to endure the worst at our hands, rather than consent to render himself, as his father did after the last war with Eng. land, an accomplice in the Canton system of robbery. We resolved; therefore, that such pecuniary claims as we had to prefer should be regarded as a charge on the province of Canton, which we would be attempt to secure as a pledge for their payment; and that the Emperor should only be required to sanction our taking measures to recover the sum from the local authorities.

DESCRIPTION OF THE TAKU FORTS BY THE PEIHO.

There are altogether five forts; mounting, probably twenty-five or one hundred guns, or more proper, speaking, having embrasures for the guns, which the opening was studiously covered by a mat, so that any depth of the Chinese could not be noticed. The principal fort is on the south side, commanding the embrasure. It is composed of three high bastions about thirty feet high, raised on the ground with three guns on each—these bastions are connected by a high curtain wall upwards of twenty feet high, through which the embrasures are cut. The whole is surrounded by a broad yards long, and is protected in front by a ditch full of water. Opposite the upper end of this fort, and consequently on the north side, is a bridge of boats, connecting the passage. Higher up are two more, one on either side, and the fifth is quite to the south, and retreated some back from the river's bank, and is connected by a wall to a similar mound in the bastions described above, though the arrangement of the outer wall rendered it necessary to connect the two by a separate wall. The entrance forts might be about a mile and a half. Such is the general appearance presented by the defences of the Peiho.

BRITISH FEELING IN CANTON.

The following is from the pen of an English officer:—

A council of war has been held at Yamun, composed of all the military and some of our civil authorities here, so as to be able to do one thing or another. We are keeping a sharp lookout, as we know pretty well the kind of people we have to deal with here. Captain Fyn made a reconnoitre on the armories and carried off which weapons, he could find. Of course, the war with China has now commenced in real earnest. We have sent to Calcutta for 1,500 more, and, in all probability we shall make direct for Pekin. We will be obliged to do this, for our own and lasting chastisement on his Celestial Majesty and his savage and treacherous officials.

THE BRITISH FLEET IN CHINA.

[From the Shanghai Herald, Saturday, July 23.]

From the official sources we find that the actual number of ships and gunboats in the China seas, amounts to forty-nine vessels, carrying 1,000 guns, of 450 guns, 6,500 men, 7,600 horse power and 22,800 tons. The following is the list of the fleet:

Rear Admiral James Hope, C.B., Commander in Chief in the Chesapeake, 51; Commodore Henry B. The News.

By the arrival of the Europa at Halifax yesterday we have European news to the morning of the 8th inst., three days later than the accounts received by the Great Britain, and also late advices from India and South America.

Nothing of importance had transpired respecting the peace negotiations, but it was expected that a treaty would be signed at Zurich on the 10th or 12th inst. The accounts as to the belligerent aspect of affairs in Italy and France, received by the two or three last steamers, appear to have been greatly exaggerated.

The official correspondence of Col. Bruce, the British Minister to China, relative to the action at the river Peiho, had been published. He approves of the course pursued by our Minister, Mr. Ward.

Several disasters to American vessels are reported. The particulars are given in our summary of the news.

The London money market and the Liverpool American produce markets had undergone no change of importance.

The disturbances at Harper's Ferry are at an end. Quiet is restored to that romantic village, and soon things will resume their usual appearance there. The five prisoners who fell into the hands of the troops were despatched yesterday, under a strong escort, to Charlestown, Va., where they are to be indicted for murder and tried. The Circuit Court opens there to-morrow. Brown, who is not dangerously wounded, is among them. They are to be prosecuted by the State, and, in case of their not being convicted capitally, are to be handed over to the United States authorities to be tried for treason. The house of Ossawattomie Brown was searched, and an immense quantity of arms and ammunition discovered, together with the constitution and ordinances of the conspirators, and letters and documents which show Gerrit Smith, Joshua R. Giddings, Fred. Douglass, and other notorious abolitionists and black republicans to have been mixed up in the affair. Brown also made a full statement to Gov. Wise. The connection of Gerrit Smith with the outbreak is curiously foreshadowed in his recent letter to the managers of the Jerry Rescue celebration, in which he speaks confidently of the imminence of servile insurrectionary movements in the South. This letter is printed elsewhere, as it serves, along with the Rochester programme of Wm. H. Seward, to lead to a full appreciation of the objects of Brown and his crazy followers.

The quadrilateral journal of this city, which is always pretending to give news in advance of all its neighbors, has recently shot terribly ahead in regard to the late Senator Broderick's property. It has just made a statement to the effect that the deceased had left a property varying from $100,000 to $200,000 in value, and that by his will he gave $15,000 to the Protestant and Catholic Orphan Asylums of San Francisco, with certain other munificent bequests to his friends. Now that the California journals have reached us, we find that there is not the slightest truth in the statement. The property of Mr. Broderick does not, in fact, reach $50,000, as has been shown in the Probate Court of San Francisco. Besides, so far from having made the bequests invented by the quadrilateral journal, it has been further shown that Mr. Broderick died without making a will at all, so that the charitable institutions whose hopes and anticipations of substantial aid have been raised and flattered by the unfounded statement will have the melancholy opportunity of discovering how they have been deceived by the latest quadrilateral intelligence.

The Republican County Convention met last night, and nominated Isaac O. Dayton, of the Sixteenth ward, for Judge of the Supreme Court; John Slosson and Erastus C. Benedict, for Judges of the Superior Court; Charles C. Nott, for Judge of Common Pleas Court; A. J. Vanderhoeffer, for Judge of the Marine Court, and James Davis for Supervisor The Convention then adjourned.

The Emigration Commissioners met yesterday. The Committee on Castle Garden submitted a long report adverse to granting privileges in the Garden for selling tickets to McDonnell & Bischoff, who are agents for booking passengers on this side in connection with others in Europe. Commissioner Jellinghans expressed a desire to have the report laid over for a week to afford him an opportunity of presenting a minority report on the subject of booking, and the frauds practised upon emigrants by that system, as there was much of the report with which he did not agree. After considerable warm discussion, in which Mr. Jellinghans plain ly intimated that the Board countenanced the frauds on emigrants, his motion was finally agreed to. Mr. Crabtree reported the complaint of a family who were defrauded of eight dollars by an agent of the McDonnell firm in Europe, and the subject was referred to Mr. Jellinghans. The number of emigrants arrived during the week was 1,668, making the number for the present year 64,197. The balance of the commutation fund is now $27,456 23.

The only jury trial that took place in the General Sessions yesterday was a charge of felonious assault and battery preferred against Hugh Donohue, he having struck his wife with a hatchet. He was convicted of an assault with intent to do bodily harm, and the Recorder sent him to the State prison for five years. Louis Grafenstein, guilty of petit larceny, was sent to Blackwell's Island for six months. Wm. H. Sanlly pleaded guilty to a similar offence, and was sent to the penitentiary for the same period. Peter and Bridget Burns were convicted of an assault on Henry Hart, and remanded for sentence. Owen Quin, one of the witnesses for the defence, was committed for perjury, he having partially admitted that he told falsehoods.

The Board of Education had the Bible question before them in a new phase last evening. A resolution was offered by Mr. Glover to pay the teachers whose salaries have been withheld. It was objected to. A resolution to suspend the rules was then offered; but another to lay on the table took precedence of it, and the subject was temporarily put to rest, the motion to lay it on the table being carried by a vote of 22 against 13. Several legacies have been recently bequeathed to the Board of Education, which we publish with our report elsewhere.

The receipts of beef cattle having fallen off about 1,000 head during the past week, a more active demand prevailed, and holders were enabled to obtain an advance of half a cent a pound, prices ranging from 6½c. to 10c. a 10½c. Cows and calves are in request at previous rates. Veal calves were active at full prices. Sheep and lambs have been very plenty, but have sold about as fast as they arrived. Swine were unchanged. There were on sale 3,053 cattle, 185 cows, 586 veals, 15,615 sheep and lambs and 5,140 swine.

The cotton market was firmer yesterday, and some brokers called middling uplands an ⅛c. higher. We however report quotations in another column. The sales embraced 600 a 700 bales. There was a rumor in the street to the effect that a house in the trade had received a telegraphic despatch from Memphis, Tennessee, announcing the occurrence of frost in that vicinity. Another despatch, received from Savannah, made no allusion to frost. The latter town, however, is farther south and of less altitude than Memphis. The probability is, that the present cold "snap" may have resulted in the advent of frost more or less severe in some sections of the cotton country, and especially on high lands. Flour was quite active and firmer for common shipping brands. The sales footed up about 26,000 bbls., part for export. Wheat was more active, and free sales were made at rates given in another place. Corn was steady, with moderate sales, including mixed at $1 and Jersey yellow at 98½c. Pork was firm, with sales of mess at $15 35 a $15 37½, and of prime at $10 75. Beef and lard were steady. The sales of sugars to the trade and by auction embraced about 600 hhds. and 100 boxes, at prices given in another place. Rio coffee was firmly held, while sales were limited to 700 bags Maracaibo and 150 do. Java, at rates given elsewhere. The shipments of flour to England comprised about 6,000 bbls., as follows:—4,000 to London at 2s. 3d., 2,000 to Liverpool at 2s. and 1,500 to Glasgow at 2s. 6d.

The Outbreak at Harper's Ferry—Complicity of Leading Abolitionists and Black Republicans.

Our Washington and Baltimore despatches published in our columns to-day give a full, interesting and highly significant account of the closing scenes of the insurrection set on foot at Harper's Ferry. The affair, which was commenced on Sunday night last, was suppressed so soon as the regular troops could reach the scene of action. The five prisoners who fell into the hands of the troops, including Ossawattomie Brown, whose wounds are said not to be dangerous, were sent yesterday under a strong escort to Charlestown, Va., where they are to be tried for murder. The Circuit Court opens to-day. Indictments will be found, and the trials will take place immediately. In Brown's house was found quite a magazine of arms and ammunition, besides the constitution and ordinances of the conspirators, and other papers, implicating Gerrit Smith, Joshua R. Giddings, Fred. Douglass, and other abolitionists and black republicans.

The President, and the officers and troops acting under his orders, have acted in the matter with a degree of promptitude which deserves the thanks of the country. That the end of the conspirators will be the end of a rope, an ignominious death without even the empty honors of martyrdom, no one can doubt for an instant.

The attempt of Brown and his men was remarkable in more ways than one. In the first place, he was a notorious Kansas-shrieker—one whose hands had more than once been dipped in human blood. He finally left Kansas and came to the East, where Mr. Seward's Emigration Aid Society friends supplied funds wherewith to stir up a servile insurrection in Virginia, which it was expected would extend throughout the border slave States. The Sharp's rifles bought for Kansas by the Seward men were to be placed in the hands of the slaves, who were expected to rob and shoot down their masters, thus beginning the "irrepressible conflict" to which Mr. Seward alluded in his brutal and bloody Rochester manifesto.

But although Brown and his eighteen comrades managed to seize the government armory, where no less than two hundred men are constantly employed, and to hold possession of a town of some three or four thousand inhabitants from Sunday night till Monday evening, the affair was a miserable failure. The slaves, without exception, refused to join in it. Brown had but four or five blacks under his command, and they were freemen. This fact shows very plainly that the negroes themselves are not ready to accept what Mr. Gerrit Smith calls their last resort. As to the whites of the Seward school, there can be but little doubt that had Brown been able to hold out a few days longer, his standard would have received numerous accessions from the North and West. The "irrepressible conflict" would then have been commenced, and before it could have ended much bloodshed would have ensued. Such was undoubtedly the Seward programme.

Thus the affair at Harper's Ferry is one of the straws that show which way the political wind blows. Its lesson should not be misunderstood. Let the Southern opposition members of Congress, when they come to the organization of the House, not forget the Harper's Ferry outbreak and the lesson it teaches them. That Mr. Seward is the arch-agitator who is responsible for this insurrection no one who has read his Rochester manifesto can deny. That his elevation to the Presidency would stimulate servile insurrections all over the Southern country, is likewise beyond peradventure. Mr. Seward once in the White House, his doctrines, howsoever fanatical, or brutal, or bloody, or cruel they may be, have a degree of importance and weight which they can obtain in no other way; and while we should be among the last persons in the world to predict anything like real danger to the Union of the States or the security of all our people in the enjoyment of their homes and the peaceful possession of their properties, of whatever kind they may be, yet it must be admitted that the election of Seward would act as a powerful incentive to men of the Brown stamp. The leading Seward organ in this city is quite lachrymose over Brown, and the abolitionists all mourn for him as for a chief in Israel fallen in the front of the battle.

The Meeting at New Rochelle—Fernando Wood on the "Irrepressible Conflict."

The report in another column of the meeting at New Rochelle, ratifying the democratic nominations for State and county officers, shows how deeply the popular heart of the country is stirred against the brutal and bloody doctrine of an "irrepressible conflict" between the Northern and Southern States of the Union.

It is evident that both the speakers and the hearers appreciated the great point of the political conflict now going on. Mr. Wood in his address touched the commercial and international bearings of the subject with the skill of a statesman, and the manner in which his remarks were received shows that the question comes home to the bosom of the people. In the commercial aspect, no greater question was ever presented to popular consideration. The markets that the South opens to the products of Northern industry are as necessary to its prosperity as are the skilled hands which ply the machines, and the machines which increase the value of the labor. Close the Southern markets, and millions of dollars which are now in active employment as manufacturing and commercial capital, and hundreds of thousands of men that are now busy supplying their demands, would be thrown back upon the community to compete for the supply of the Northern markets, which again draw a portion of their life from Southern labor. And the markets of the South will be closed if we destroy the bond of labor there, and break up the social organization. No community can go through such commotion and live. Its constituents must be returned to their original elements, and a new assimilation and arrangement take place if the present institution of domestic slavery is destroyed. In a word, society must be returned to barbarism before the new order of things could flourish.

This is the point of international relation so ably handled by Mr. Wood. The statesmen of England see in the steady prosperity of this Union the coming destruction of the theories of class government and aristocratic privileges which they have so long supported. They see clearly that the surest blow against that prosperity will be the one struck at one of its vastest elements; and therefore are they so willing to clasp hands with Seward, and to encourage him and his followers to strike that blow. They have taken counsel with the Cataline of America, because they knew full well the political results of the councils he urges upon his country. They have had a practical experience of them in the effect they produced upon the British West Indies. These have been reduced to a political and industrial nonentity by the very measures which Seward would have the Congress of the United States apply to the States south of Mason's and Dixon's line.

Had the West Indian colonies borne the same proportionate relation to the British empire that the Southern States bear to the Union, the effects which negro emancipation would have produced upon the home industry of England would have caused a bloody revolution there. Its meagre proportions reduced and delayed the reaction, but it has not been less conclusive. The common sense of that country rejects the teachings of the self-styled humanitarians, and Exeter Hall has sunk to the level of contempt. Manchester and Birmingham have lost the West Indian markets for their fabrics, and London and Liverpool see no more the fleets from there which once gladdened the hearts of their merchants. A few fanatics still cling to the exploded remnants of their theories, but their only followers are the senseless dowagers and the thoughtless children of the Sunday schools. The destruction of our Southern markets for the products of industry would produce a similar revulsion here, but wider and more fatal in its effects. We must prevent the result, rather than permit and lament it.

THE WATER TROUBLES IN BROOKLYN.—Our neighbors across the river have no sooner realized their pet project which was to do such wonders for their city than it has involved them in difficulties. They have got into hot water when they expected to have luxuriated in cold. The cause of their troubles is half of their own making and half the work of politicians. They were in such a hurry to compete with New York in the matter of a water supply that they did not take time to properly digest their engineering plans. Under the authority of the charter the original contracts entered into provided merely for an open canal between the reservoirs. After the works had made some progress this was deemed objectionable by the Board of Water Commissioners, and it was decided that a closed conduit would be preferable. It should in fairness be stated that in this opinion the Board was supported by many influential citizens, corroborated by the experience of other water works. In those of Philadelphia and Boston great complaints were in the beginning made of the exposed structure of the water ducts, and of the facilities which they afforded for the introduction of foreign substances, either by mischievously disposed persons or by accident. This last summer we ourselves had a sample of the annoyance that may be occasioned even by so apparently harmless an element as sub-aqueous vegetation. Under all the circumstances, therefore, it would probably have been the wisest thing for the Common Council to have decided in the beginning on the more expensive of the two plans submitted to them. They however did not consider themselves warranted in authorizing the increase which it would occasion in the original estimates, and if they erred, they certainly erred on the side on which corporators are not usually to be found.

Under the assumed authority of the act which was pushed through the Legislature in April last by a political effort, the new Board of Water Commissioners constituted by it entered into a contract for a closed conduit, in place of the open canal, without reference to the Common Council. They also fixed the amount of the water rates, and proceeded to levy them, although it is claimed that the Common Council have, under the act of 1857, the sole power to fix and control them. Under these circumstances the City Comptroller refused to pay the drafts of the Commissioners for the construction of the works, and this has led to a threat by the contractors that they will stop the engine by which the water is pumped into the reservoir, and thus leave the city without its supply, unless the money be forthcoming. There is, consequently, great excitement amongst those who have paid the water tax, and the matter has been carried into the courts. There is no doubt that a decision will be given similar to that rendered in the case of the Croton dam, in which it was held that the Water Commissioners were only the agents of the Corporation, and had no power to construct such works without their authority.

The above facts furnish another illustration of the readiness with which means are found, through the aid of the politicians, to get round the provisions of the most stringent charters, and to defeat the precautions taken to prevent unauthorized expenditures of the public money. The Water Commissioners of Brooklyn have in all their proceedings evinced a disposition to throw off the control of the city authorities, and it is for the interest of the public that they should be taught that an act of the Legislature obtained by unfair influences will not be allowed to override constitutional safeguards.

Our November Election and the Next Presidency.

The State of New York is the only remaining hope against a Northern sectional struggle for the Presidency. Within the last twelve months, including New York, it may be said that every Northern State this side the Rocky Mountains has gone by the board. All these late Northern elections, from Maine to Minnesota, indicate a general sectional crusade in 1860 against the "peculiar institution" of the South, or, as designated by our republican organs, the "slave oligarchy" and the "slave power." This crusade by the republican party, as a sectional anti-slavery organization, can only be prevented, we apprehend, by a popular reaction against W. H. Seward and his revolutionary Presidential programme in our November State election.

The prospects for this popular reaction, it must be admitted, are anything but encouraging or satisfactory. The moral effect of all the late elections goes against any such reaction in a State where the republican party is considered firmly seated in power, and as possessing the resources for a popular majority equal to all demands. On the other side, the treacheries, trickeries, corruptions and debaucheries of the Albany Regency and Tammany Hall have so demoralized and disorganized the democratic party that it has entered into the work of this campaign without confidence or courage, but full of the symptoms and fears of a crushing defeat. And yet the New York democracy are now called upon to suspend for a few weeks their local quarrels and personal feuds, in order to rescue the State and the Presidential election from the control of a sectional disunion agitator and his followers; and this good work may possibly be done.

In the first place, although the party was in a disordered, dispirited and wrangling condition last year, the democratic candidate for Governor received some thirty-five thousand votes more than were cast for Mr. Buchanan in the State in 1856. These votes were, doubtless, to a very great extent, drawn from the dissolving American party. But there were still in the same election some sixty thousand votes cast for the American State ticket. These sixty thousand votes of a party now disbanded may be wielded to turn the election one way or the other, or half-and-half, as arranged by the silly triumvirate of Ullmann, Scroggs and Brooks, in their late Convention at Utica. We have reason to believe that very few of these sixty thousand Know Nothings have any faith in Seward, and that a large majority of them can never be brought to support him for the Presidency upon any terms. Why, then, if they would dispose of him, and place him on the shelf among the political fossil remains of an age gone by—why not at once turn the vote of New York into a rebuke, instead of an endorsement of his Presidential pretensions?

In the next place, this recent abolition affair in Virginia should act as a warning to all conservative, law-abiding and Union-loving men of the North in reference to the disunion tendencies and dangers of the slavery agitation. We dare say, now, that the Southern States in the Charleston Convention will repudiate everything in the way of a candidate or platform which does not clearly afford some positive securities of protection to Southern slavery. It is very probable that the democracy at Charleston will thus be constrained to accept a candidate and platform so decidedly pro-slavery as to encourage the republicans of the North to confine the Presidential contest to the "slave oligarchy" and the "aggressions and demands of the slave power."

The result of a contest of this character would unquestionably be the defeat of the South, and the election of an anti-slavery President from the North; and this result would doubtless be the signal for secession and revolutionary movements in the South, which would soon ripen into a civil war. But this sectional battle for the next Presidency may be prevented by the conservative people of New York in our November election, and by the simple act of casting their suffrages so that they shall secure a judgment from the Empire State against W. H. Seward and his abominable disunion and insurrectionary principles. Otherwise we may as well prepare now as next year for the most embittered, perilous, mischievous and disastrous sectional agitation of slavery, morally, politically and financially, North and South, in all the history of this vexed question. Let Seward be rebuked, and the South may be convinced that she is still secure under the sheltering wings of the constitution. And we call upon our Union-loving men of all parties to remember this in our November election.

THE REGISTRATION OF VOTERS—INDIFFERENCE OF THE PEOPLE.—We publish in another column an account of the registration of voters under the new Registry law, which took place on Tuesday. The people seem to have taken little or no interest in the matter. The number of voters who presented themselves to the registrars was comparatively small, and there appeared to be no small amount of confusion and mystification as to the exact duties of the registrars. Perhaps the indifference manifested was due to the fact that a general impression prevailed that all those whose names appear on the poll list of the last general election are not required to make personal application for registry; and such seems to be the meaning of the new law. All voters, however, who have changed their residences since the last election—of which doubtless there are a large number—we presume should have applied for registration, and in case of their failure to do so, there may be some trouble and delay in voting on election day. In any event, we think it quite likely that considerable confusion will result from this bungling piece of legislation when voters present themselves at the polls at the November election.

"MAD BROWN'S INSURRECTION."—This is the term by which the late bloody affair at Harper's Ferry is designated by the republican organs, now that it has been proved a sad failure; but it cannot be forgotten that this man Brown was a representative in Kansas of the Massachusetts Emigrant Aid Society during all the trouble there, and that all the outrages in which he and others then participated were sustained and applauded by the republican papers at the time. Brown was the recipient and keeper of the arms and munitions of war contributed by the abolition Aid Society to plunge Kansas into bloodshed and anarchy, as is proved by the fact that he used these same arms in his late desperate attempt in Virginia. It is pretended that the insurrection at Harper's Ferry was an isolated affair, concocted by Brown himself, without the knowledge of the republican abolition leaders, and that it had no ramifications anywhere else. It is true that a few of the conservative portion of the republican party thought that the Kansas disturbers were going too far, and that the same class look with abhorrence upon this late sanguinary attempt at Harper's Ferry; but we think it is quite probable that the various Garrisonian and Seward cliques were well aware that it was pre-arranged; in fact, that such an opening of the "irrepressible conflict" was desired, though their organs now talk of it as "Brown's crazy insurrection," and "Mad Brown's insurrection," and describe its leader as Old Ossawattomie Brown, and call him a misguided fanatic, and so forth; but at the same time they go as far to justify his act as they dare; and when his trial comes on, then we shall probably see by whose authority "Mad Brown" acted.

That the insurrection was the work of mad impulse rather than of a preconceived plan, is disproved by the admission of Brown himself; that it was designed as far back as June, 1856, and by the other fact, that in August last the Secretary of War was informed of the whole plan, exactly as it has been carried out, in a letter which appeared in the HERALD of yesterday.

We have no doubt that it was Brown's deliberate intention to use the arms which he had brought from Kansas for this treasonable purpose; that he calculated upon seizing the United States arsenal, and thus supply the slaves of Virginia and Maryland with weapons and ammunition, in the hope that they would flock to his standard in thousands, by which he would be enabled either to run them off into the free States, or to incite a general servile insurrection, and possibly hold Maryland and Virginia until he proclaimed a provisional government, or some nonsense of that sort. There is no doubt that the scheme was a very "mad" one, and could not have succeeded in any event; but there is just as little doubt, we think, that Old Ossawattomie neither conceived nor attempted it without aid and counsel from other quarters.

In short, had Brown succeeded in his atrocious purpose, instead of falling miserably, as he fortunately did, his friends and abettors, instead of stigmatizing him as a madman, would have enshrined his name as a hero; he would, possibly, have found a place in their estimation equal to that of Washington. The truth is that it is not the act of Brown and his followers which the republican papers now condemn, but the mistake which he made in selecting the wrong time for the attempt. Even as it is, they make a very poor attempt to disguise the fact that it is not the spirit which animated this misguided traitor they find fault with so much as the inopportune moment at which the attempt was made and the ill success which attended it.

OUR LEGISLATORS AND THE INFLUENCES BROUGHT TO BEAR ON THEM.—National and State and municipal legislators in this country have, unfortunately, got into bad odor with the community. A Congressman, particularly from the Northern and Western States, is usually a personage whose integrity does not rank very high in the public estimation; and as for an Alderman, the title is about as reproachful a one as that of rowdy. In fact, of late years, the terms have been growing to be synonymous. But of all the legislative bodies in the land, federal, State or municipal, none stand in worse repute than the Legislature of this State. And deservedly so. For the last three or four years they have not only been trampling on the rights of the people, have not only been bartering away the municipal privileges of this city, have not only been foisting on us hordes of decayed politicians as Police Commissioners, Harbor Commissioners, and other officials, but they have been plotting to give over the State, bound hand and foot, to the Juggernaut car of William H. Seward and the other apostles of abolitionism.

Of course it is unnecessary to say that our State Legislature has been corrupt and dishonest. It has been, if possible, a little worse in those respects than our own Common Council. The lobby members flourished as they used to flourish at Washington in those good times when Simonton was the vote broker of the republican members, and the immaculate Matteson their file-leader. Under the auspices of such a schemer as Seward it could not have been otherwise. The lobby force was recognized as a great power in the State, and became familiarly known as the Third House.

But our progress is still downward. It goes on from bad to worse. The reputation of State legislators has become so bad that decent men would almost as soon become candidates for a bunk in Sing Sing as for a seat in the Capitol at Albany. And the Third House has extended its operations so greatly, and has grown so omnipotent, that now, instead of depending upon their influence over the members themselves, they go to the fountain head, and dictate to the primary assemblies and nominating conventions as to who shall be the nominees of their respective parties. In this way they obviate the possibility of any difficulty in carrying their plans at Albany, and take care that the right sort of men for their purposes are sent there. The plan has the advantage of cheapness. A few hundred dollars can generally make the thing all right with a primary meeting; and then, the baser the material provided, the less will be its cash value.

These legislators of ours have the control of some fifteen or twenty millions of dollars annually for the maintenance of our State government. They have, besides, the power of directing what is to be done with our canal system; and that involves some forty or fifty millions of dollars. Then, they have assumed the right of granting railroad charters for the streets of this city. There were some ten or twelve applications for such charters before the last Legislature. There are hundreds of thousands of dollars to be made in this way by our run house politicians who manage to be sent to the Senate or Assembly. And, finally, the next Senate will have the choice of a Senator in Congress in place of William H. Seward. If this demagogue be defeated in his aspirations for the Presidency, as all good citizens hope he will be, then they will want to re-elect him to the Senate; and in the other event they will want to fill his place with one of the same stamp.

It is for these reasons that we should try to be properly represented at Albany; but the belief that we cannot be has grown to be a fixed idea in the minds of the people. We fear there is too much cause for that belief.

ARRIVAL OF THE EUROPA.

News from Europe, Asia and South America.

Progress of the Peace Negotiations at Zurich.

STATE OF AFFAIRS IN ITALY.

What the British Plenipotentiary in China Says of Minister Ward and Com. Tatnall.

SHIPWRECK OF AMERICAN VESSELS.

Cotton, Breadstuffs and Provisions Steady, &c., &c., &c.

SACKVILLE, N. B., Oct. 19, 1859.

The steamship Europa, Capt. Leitch, from Liverpool, at 9 A. M. of the 8th inst., arrived at Halifax at two o'clock this morning, and sailed thence at 9 20 A. M. for Boston, where she will be due to-morrow afternoon. The horse express, with her news, arrived here this evening.

The following disasters to American ships are reported:—

The ship American Congress ran aground near the Ower's Light, in the English Channel, on the 6th inst. Assistance was sent from Portsmouth and it was supposed she was got off and towed to Spithead. The amount of damage done is not known.

The Cairo, from New York for Rotterdam, ran ashore on South Pelpus on the 4th, but no particulars have been received.

The Lancaster, from San Francisco for Australia, foundered at Malahi on July 10. The crew were saved.

The United States frigate Constellation and steamer Sumpter were at St. Vincent's Sept. 23.

The steamship Kangaroo, from New York, arrived at Queenstown on the 6th, and at Liverpool the evening of the following day.

The steamship Ocean Queen arrived at Southampton at noon of the 7th.

The steamship Persia arrived at Liverpool early on the morning of the 8th.

THE TREATY OF PEACE.

Nothing further has been received regarding the proceedings at Zurich, beyond the general assertion that progress continued to be made towards signing the treaty of peace. It is said that the treaty will be complicated, and will leave Austria a door open to quarrel with Piedmont.

The Paris Constitutionnel contains an article by its chief editor, stating that the preliminaries at Villafranca had rescued Italy from every foreign intervention, no matter under what name or from what Power it might come.

France confines herself to giving Italians proper advice. If followed by them, that advice would have insured the prosperity of Central Italy; but having in vain offered advice she cannot go so far as to dictate orders to Italy.

The latest reports say that the treaty between France and Austria will probably be signed at Zurich on the 10th or 12th inst. Austria consented to sign on all questions belonging to Lombardy.

CHINA AFFAIRS.

The official correspondence between the British government and its officials in China relative to the measures taken for the ratification of the treaty at Pekin, is published. The Hon. Colonel Bruce, British Ambassador, states positively that if Admiral Hope had expressed any doubt as to the result of attempting to force the passage of the Peiho, they would not have been shared by the squadron; and if it be decided that the means at command were insufficient to justify so bold a line of policy Col. Bruce accepts the responsibility of Admiral Hope's act.

Lord John Russell's reply virtually approves of the course taken, and says that preparations are being made in conjunction with the French government to enable the forces to support the Plenipotentiaries in their instructions.

Col. Bruce, in one of his letters, shows the position occupied by Mr. Ward, the American Minister, and expressed the opinion that the Chinese will not make difficulties about exchanging ratifications with him, as the conditions under which the American Minister is alone entitled to visit Pekin contain nothing offensive to Chinese pride. Col. Bruce expresses much gratification at the friendly feeling and assistance experienced from Mr. Ward and Flag Officer Tatnall, and concludes as follows:—

"Mr. Ward's position is one of considerable difficulty, nor do I see, after our unsuccessful attempt at Peiho, that any course was open save the one which he has adopted. He has acted cordially and frankly in the spirit of his declarations at Hong Kong, and it is a matter of satisfaction to me that his concert in our proceedings is a strong argument in favor of the conduct pursued by M. Bourboion and myself."

GREAT BRITAIN.

No further change in the Great Eastern programme is announced. She will probably leave Portland on the day the Europa sails, and arrive at Holyhead on the 11th. Her departure for America depends entirely upon circumstances. Numerous steamers and excursion trains are advertised to leave Liverpool, &c., to visit the big ship.

The cotton brokers of Liverpool, and the manufacturers of Manchester, are again raising a loud cry against the practice of mixing sand, dust, &c., with American cotton. The Brokers' Association of Liverpool presented a memorial to the American Chamber of Commerce on the subject, requesting the Chamber to use its influence to stop the practice. The memorial says that in last year's imports the sand and dust would in all probability form a portion equivalent to the weight of a hundred thousand bales, and that the admixture caused a depreciation in the value of cotton greater than was proportional to the sand and dust. The American chamber recognized the importance of the movement, and the memorial is to be printed for circulation in the United States.

The London Times says that fabricators of false coin are very active either in Mexico or the United States, more than the ordinary proportion of dollars recently received via New York having been found bad.

It is rumored that government is disposed to reconsider the recent decision postponing the establishment of the new mail service to Australia via Panama.

The London Daily News, of the evening of the 7th inst., says—The demand for money to-day increased. There were no gold operations at the bank.

FRANCE.

The Paris Patrie says a special corps of fifteen hundred men are soon to be formed and sent to Egypt, thence to be conveyed by steamers to China.

The Prussian Ambassador at Paris was at Biarritz, as well as Lord Cowley.

The Bishop of Orleans, in joining the ultramontane demonstration in course of execution by French Bishops, on account of affairs in Italy, hinted at the possible invasion of Ireland by General McMahon.

The London Herald's Paris correspondent says it strictly true that Napoleon has a secret understanding, both with Austria and Sardinia, which will enable him to command the whole Italian seaboard in the Mediterranean, as far as Civita Vecchia, and another step in furtherance of his scheme is the expedition to Morocco, as the Mediterranean Squadron, which has sailed from Toulon with ten thousand men for the Morocco frontiers, will command the African coast from Algiers to Ceuta.

Napoleon had declined to attend the banquet at Bordeaux. The anticipated Imperial speech, it is thought, will not, therefore, be forthcoming.

The fortifications on the coast between Havre and Cean were being carried on with extreme rapidity.

The London Times correspondent is assured that the number of steel plated frigates yet ordered is six, and that twenty large transports, capable of conveying 1,500 men each, are building or ordered.

The Bourse has been inanimate, and has slightly declined. The rentes closed on the 7th at 69 45.

ITALY.

A despatch from Madrid to the London Daily News says: On the 5th Colonel Anvite, late President of the late military commission of the ex-Duke of Parma, was discovered to have arrived in Parma in disguise, having gone there to get up a compromise. He remained concealed for some time, and when recognized by the populace great efforts were made to save him. He actually took refuge in a guard house where four or five carbineers were stationed, but the door was forced opened and Col. Anvite was killed. Perfect tranquillity subsequently prevailed. The Daily News says Anvite was one of the most detested men in the late government, and during the reign of the Regent narrowly escaped the vengeance of his countrymen. Another version says he was merely passing through the city, and was recognized at the railroad station. He was dragged through the streets, buffeted by the people, and finally his head was cut off and carried in triumph. The troops reached the scene too late to prevent it.

There is a vague report that Prince Carignano had been tendered and had accepted the regency of Central Italy for the King of Sardinia.

It is confirmed that the Sardinian Ambassador at Rome had received his passports. The gravity of the proceeding is diminished by the circumstance that diplomatic relations between the two governments has been interrupted ever since the Sardinian Chamber passed the famous law relative to convents.

The government of Bologna have decreed the abolition of the customs on the line of the frontier of Modena and Tuscany, and adopted the Sardinian customs tariff.

Mazzini has addressed a letter to the King of Sardinia frankly renouncing his personal opinions, and promising the support of the democratic party of the kingdom, and will make Italy free.

NAPLES.

Letters say that great agitation continued to prevail there. Fourteen persons belonging to the highest families had been arrested. Among them were Baron Calotte, Marquis Dafilito, and Marquis Garacioli. They are accused of holding meetings for discussing politics.

The government was taking active precautionary measures against an outbreak.

It was reported that General Garibaldi had entered the Marches—the rumor causing a great sensation in Naples.

The latest letters say that the persons above referred to as under arrest had been released without prosecution.

It is said that the Pope had informed the temporal Powers that he will not give up his temporal powers, and that he will, if necessary, call upon all the Catholic Powers to support him.

PRUSSIA.

The bridge over the Rhine was inaugurated with great ceremony on the 3d, in the presence of the, Prince Regent of Prussia.

GERMANY.

The Duke of Saxe Coburg had replied to the note of the Austrian government touching his position regarding federal reform in Germany. The Duke denies any desire to exclude Austria from the federal union, but does not consider himself called on to account to any one for his expressed opinions.

TURKEY.

The inquiry into the late conspiracy was terminated. The commission had made a report and sentence was soon to be passed. Fresh and important arrests had been made.

Omar Pasha, Chief of the army of Bagdad, had been deprived of his command, in consequence of serious abuses of his authority.

The papers contain the names of thirty-four conspirators, including persons of high rank.

The reported appearance of the plague at Beyroot I denied.

INDIA.

The Calcutta mails to August 31 and Bombay to September 12 have been telegraphed. They reached London on the morning the steamer sailed, but not in time for the Europa.

A private despatch says the disbanded European troops had accepted the bounty and consented to go to China, instead of returning home. It is supposed that the force to be sent would number ten thousand men.

Disturbances were eminent on the coast of Kattywar.

It was reported that the people of Jeypore would not comply with the disarming order.

Nanasahib and the Begum were in Nepaul.

The government of India had increased the licensed tax to an income tax of seven pence per pound on all incomes over £25 per annum, officials and landlords to be excepted. The Council refused to pass the bill without a clear statement of receipts and expenditures, and demurred the exemption of officials.

Exchange at Calcutta, 2s. 3¼d.; at Bombay, 2s. 1½d. Exports less active. Imports steady.

CHINA.

China dates to August, had reached Bombay, but contained no news of importance.

SOUTH AMERICA.

The arrival of the Brazilian mail was telegraphed by the last steamer, and the papers since received state that peace negotiations initiated by the American Minister had ended without a result. It appears that Mr. Yancey went to Paraana to inquire into the circumstances of the case. He was informally acquainted with the fact that the government of Buenos Ayres would treat upon the broad basis of Urquiza's retiring to private life, but on his return, and after his mediation had been accepted, it was ascertained that he was wholly unprepared to touch upon the principal and only essential point, and thus into interviews terminated the sessions, and the American Minister returned to Paraana, thence to embark for the United States.

Preparations for war were going forward actively. The London Times says the negotiations ended without result, owing to the exaggerated demands of the negotiator Mr. Yancey, his terms being tantamount to the unconditional surrender of Buenos Ayres to Urquiza's rule. President Lopez, of Paraguay, afterwards offered his mediation and was accepted.

COMMERCIAL INTELLIGENCE.

FRIDAY, OCTOBER 20, 1859.—TWO O'CLOCK P. M.

The Broker's circular reports the sales of cotton for the week at about 65,000 bales, of which 3,000 were taken by speculators, and 11,000 for export. Fair and middling qualities were slightly higher on the week, while the inferior qualities continued unsaleable. Holders offered their stocks freely, but showed no disposition to force sales, while there was an improved trade demand. The sales of Friday were 10,000 bales, of which 3,000 were taken by speculators and exporters, the market closing firm and steady.

The stock in port was estimated at 559,999 bales, of which 446,000 were cotton.

STATE OF TRADE IN MANCHESTER.

The advices from Manchester are unfavorable; there was but little inquiry for goods, and prices were weak, with in some cases partially slightly lower.

LIVERPOOL BREADSTUFFS MARKET.

Messrs. Richardson, Spence & Co. report flour firm, with sales of American at 22s. 6d. a 27s. per barrel. Wheat firm, with a better tone since Tuesday; red Western, 8s. 3d. a 8s. 6d., and white 8s. 9d. a 11s. for all descriptions. Corn brought and slightly higher under speculative purchases; yellow, 5s. 8d. a 6s.; white, 7s. a 7s. 6d. England, Ahrys & Co. say flour is held for an advance of 6d. a 1s. per sack, and corn for an advance of 6d. a 1s. per quarter.

LONDON MONEY MARKET.

The London money market was unchanged. Consols closed on the 7th at 95¾ a 96⅝ for both money and account.

The bullion in the Bank of England had decreased £71,000.

AMERICAN SECURITIES.

Messrs. Bell & Son and Baring Brothers both report a limited business doing in American securities at previous rates. The former quote—

News from Mexico.

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 19, 1859.

Advices from Brownsville to the 8th have been received. There had been no further outrages committed there. The citizens had formed themselves into four battalions, which perform alternately guard duty at night.

Advices from Monterey of the 28th ult. state that Durango, in the province of the same name, had been taken and sacked by a band of robbers numbering two hundred. Troops afterwards came to the relief of the town, and succeeded in dispersing the robbers and killing many of them.

The army at Monterey had pronounced against Vidaurri, who, together with Zuazua, had left for Texas.

Gen. Marquez suffered two defeats on the 10th, near Guadalajara, by the liberals under Gen. Ogazon. Marquez had sent to Gen. Woll for reinforcements.

The steamship Indianola brings Brownsville dates of the 11th inst.

The Mexican outlaw Cortinas, with several hundred men, was still encamped above Brownsville, and another attack was hourly expected.

Cortinas had issued a proclamation saying that orderly citizens have nothing to fear, his object being to chastise his enemies, the sheriff and lawyers.

A private letter from General Degollado, just received here, states that he has appointed a Governor of New Leon in place of Vidaurri, and that he is satisfied with the condition of things in Northern Mexico. It is not true as reported that San Luis is in possession of the church party.

The Yacht Wanderer.

SAVANNAH, Oct. 19, 1859.

The yacht Wanderer sailed last night without papers, but with a full crew, and provisions and ammunition stolen from her owner, Mr. Lamar, by Capt. Martin, who has been negotiating for her for some time. The Collector of the port sent a steamer with Mr. Lamar and others after her without success.

The Fillibusters.

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 19, 1859.

Judge McCabe, of the Federal Court, to-day delivered a strong charge against the filibusters.

Death of Com. Williamson, U. S. N.

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 19, 1859.

Commander Williamson, recently in command of the steamer Fulton, died at Pensacola on the 16th inst.

Death of Gen. Peter J. Stryker.

SOMERVILLE, N. J., Oct. 19, 1859.

Gen. Peter J. Stryker died this morning, aged ninety-four years. He was a Major General in the third division of the New Jersey militia, and was the oldest military officer in commission in the State. He served in the Legislature several terms. He was a wagon boy in the Revolution, under General Wayne. The funeral will take place on Friday morning.

Postponement of a Regatta.

BOSTON, October 19, 1859.

The Champion Regatta, announced for this afternoon on Charles River, was postponed till to-morrow, on account of the high wind.

Burning of a Railroad Depot.

PARKERSBURG, Oct. 19, 1859.

The President of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad Company telegraphs that the freight depot of the Northwestern Virginia Railroad Company, at Ellenboro, Ritchie county, Va., was destroyed by fire this morning at three o'clock. It was insured, and is believed to have been fired by an incendiary.

The Episcopal Convention.

RICHMOND, Oct. 19, 1859.

To-day's session of the Episcopal Convention chiefly was occupied by discussing a proposition requesting the House of Bishops to reconsider their resolution of the last session, in relation to the use of books of prayer, but no action was taken.

Convention of Evangelical Christians.

CHICAGO, Oct. 19, 1859.

The Convention of the Western Evangelical Christians, opposed to the policy of the American Tract Society on the subject of slavery, met in this city yesterday. The attendance was large, embracing delegates from Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, Wisconsin, Iowa and Minnesota. The Convention was permanently organized by the election of the Rev. Henry D. Kitchell, of Michigan, as President. A committee was then appointed to report business for the action of the Convention, who subsequently reported a set of resolutions declaring that the tract agency is the most vital means for the promotion of the cause of Christ; that the efforts now making in our country to revive the African slave trade demand renewed testimony from the church against such abominations; that evangelical Christianity condemns slaveholding as one of the highest crimes against God and man; that in view of the refusal of the American Tract Society of New York to apply the Gospel to the sin of slaveholding, the time has come for the reorganization of the system of tract operations, with a view to meet the present emergencies of our common Christianity.

Addresses were made by members of the Boston and Cincinnati societies. A strong feeling of opposition to slavery, and also to the action of the American Tract Society on that subject, pervades the whole assembly. The Convention will probably remain in session for some days.

Sailing of the Canada.

BOSTON, Oct. 19, 1859.

The steamship Canada will sail for Halifax and Liverpool at about two o'clock, having been delayed by the non-arrival of the Canadian mails, which are delayed somewhere on the route.

Fire at Columbus, Ohio.

COLUMBUS, Oct. 19, 1859.

The pattern shop and a portion of the sheds attached to the Columbus Marine Manufacturing Company's establishment in this city were destroyed by fire last night, together with a large quantity of valuable patterns. Loss not yet ascertained.

INTERESTING FROM WASHINGTON.

Peaceful Despatches from England—Mexican Matters—The French Mission—Senator Gwin—President Making—Report of the Secretary of the Treasury—Archbishop Hughes—Douglas's New Pamphlet—Governor Magoffin Opposed to Douglas for the Presidency, &c.

OUR SPECIAL WASHINGTON DESPATCH.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 19, 1859.

The official communication from England in relation to the San Juan difficulty is exceedingly pacific and conciliatory. The despatches through Lord Lyons to the State Department are the authority for this.

Mr. McLane will leave in the Brooklyn for Vera Cruz on the 1st November, at which time he will receive his instructions. These will be shadow energetic action on the part of our government. Their result cannot be known until the end of next month.

Henry Clay Mudd, connected with the Clerkship of the House of Representatives, has in hand, it is understood, the publication of Judge Douglas' new pamphlet. It will appear this week, and it is presumed that it will not be copyrighted.

Archbishop Hughes dined with the President yesterday, and was met by a number of distinguished guests assembled to do him honor.

None of the members of the Cabinet have yet commenced their reports, nor does the President think it time yet to begin the labors connected with his Message. The report of the Secretary of the Treasury, it is believed, will be very favorable, as regards the finances of the country. He will be able to get on without a new loan, and will have Treasury notes enough in hand to supply the Post office deficit.

The rumor that Governor Floyd will be appointed Minister to France, to succeed Mr. Mason, is incorrect. Mr. Appleton's name is the most prominent in connection with that office, at present.

Minister Gwin is expected here to-morrow.

There is a complete lull among the President makers. An immense gathering of democrats is expected in response to the general invitation from the chairman, at the meeting of the National Democratic Committee on the 7th of December.

The friends of Senator Douglas are circulating the story that his claims to the Presidency are warmly supported by Governor Magoffin, of Kentucky. A letter from Governor Magoffin himself pronounces this to be an unqualified falsehood.

New York Politics.

ALBANY, Oct. 19, 1859.

J. M. Vollett, the Justice of the Peace charged with forging pension papers, was tried to-day before the United States District Court, and found guilty.

The democrats of this city, who last full united with the republicans against Erastus Corning for Congress, held a Convention to-day and nominated Wm. A. Young for Senator, Samuel G. Courtney, son-in-law of Daniel S. Dickinson, for District Attorney, and a full county ticket. It is supposed that Young, and probably one other candidate on the ticket, will receive the republican endorsement against the regular democratic nominees.

SING SING, Oct. 19, 1859.

The democrats of the Third Assembly district nominated James M. Dard to-day for Assembly. He was formerly an Alderman in New York city.

Massachusetts Politics.

BOSTON, Oct. 19, 1859.

A Convention of persons opposed to all the present political state organizations, was held in Faneuil Hall to-day, and nominated George N. Briggs, of Pittsfield, for Governor, Increase Sumner, of Great Barrington, for Lieutenant Governor, and a full ticket of minor State officers. The Convention was thinly attended, and attracted very little interest.

The Democratic Convention for the Fifth Congressional district, comprising the six northern wards of Boston, with Cambridge and Chelsea, was held to-day in Cambridge, for the purpose of choosing two delegates to the Charleston Convention. Double delegations, representing the Caston House and Douglas interests, were present, many of the latter forcing their way through the windows into the hall, an attempt having been made to exclude them. Sidney Webster was chosen chairman. After an exciting scene, the Custom House party bolted, and organized separately. The regular Convention elected B. F. Hallett and Cornelius Doherty, both Douglas men, to Charleston. The Custom House party elected John T. Heard and J. C. Lovejoy, administration.

New Jersey Politics.

TRENTON, Oct. 19, 1859.

A large and enthusiastic democratic meeting was held held here this evening. It was addressed by Joel Parker Gen. E. R. V. Wright, candidate for Governor, James M. Scovel, of Camden, and Col. James W. Wall.

New Hampshire Politics.

DOVER, N. H., Oct 19, 1859.

At the Democratic Councillor Convention, held at Alton Bay to-day, Gen. W. Stevens, of Dover, and Robert S. Webster, of Barnstead, both warm supporters of Judge Douglas, were chosen delegates to Charleston.

Loss of Propeller Troy.

GODERICH, C. W., Oct. 19, 1859.

The propeller Troy, from Chicago to Buffalo, loaded with 11,000 bushels of wheat, foundered last night, ten miles off Point Dubuque. A boat with three of the crew ran ashore near Goderich. The lifeboat, with eighteen of the crew and three ladies, has not yet been heard of.

Exchanges.

CHICAGO, Oct. 19, 1859.

Sight drafts on New York easy at 1¼ per cent premium for currency.

MOBILE, Oct. 19, 1859.

Sight drafts on New York ¼ per cent premium.

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 19, 1859.

Sight drafts on New York ¼ per cent premium.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 19, 1859.

Sight exchange on New York, par to 1-16 per cent premium.

Markets.

PHILADELPHIA STOCK BOARD.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 19, 1859.

Stocks dull. Pennsylvania State fives, 83¼; Reading Railroad, 49¼; Pennsylvania Railroad, 39¾; Long Island Railroad, 10¼; Pennsylvania Railroad, 39¾.

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 19, 1859.

Cotton—Sales to-day 6,000 bales; market generally unchanged. Sugar dull at 6c. a 6¾c. for fair to fully fair. New molasses 42c. Lard firm, 10c. Whiskey 23½c. Freight on cotton to Liverpool 9-32d.

Cotton firm. Sales to-day 900 bales.

SAVANNAH, Oct. 19, 1859.

Cotton—Sales to-day 2,000 bales, the market closing with an advancin tendency.

SAVANNAH, Oct. 19, 1859.

Cotton unchanged; sales to-day 550 bales.

BALTIMORE, Oct. 19, 1859.

Flour active at $5 12½ for Howard street and Ohio, and $4 87½ for City Mills. Wheat buoyant; sales 9,000 bushels at $1 20 a $1 45 for white. Corn firmer—92c. a 94c. for both white and yellow. Provisions dull and unchanged. Whiskey dull at 22c. for Ohio.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 19, 1859.

Flour steady at $5 12½ for superfine. Wheat dull; sales 6,000 bushels. Corn dull; yellow 90c. a 92c. Whiskey firm at 28c. a 29c.

BUFFALO, Oct. 19—1 P. M.

Flour quiet and unchanged. Wheat quiet and steady; sales 16,000 bushels Milwaukee club, free, five days, at 91c.; 7,000 bushels white winter Genesee, in bids at $1 19 a $1 20. Corn and other grains quiet. Winter fires at 52c. Canal freights firmer. Corn, 3½c.; wheat 13c. and flour 45c. Lake imports—9,200 bbls. flour, 29,000 bushels wheat, 43,000 bushels oats, 6,000 bushels barley; lake exports—300 bbls. flour, 60,000 bushels wheat, 6,000 bushels corn, 3,000 bushels oats, 7,000 bushels barley.

OSWEGO, Oct. 19, 1859.

Flour in moderate demand for the home and interior trade; sales 500 bbls. at $4 50 for State, from Chicago spring. Wheat market opened light, but at the close a better feeling prevailed, while prices were firmer: the supply offering continues uncommonly meagre, but receipts have increased somewhat; sales 6,000 bushels at winter Indiana on private terms. In Canadian not enough going to establish prices for shipping lots, the only sale being 3,500 bushels white at $1 18. Corn wanted, but none in the market. Oats nominal. Barley dull and unchanged. Rye steady; sales of 1,400 bushels Canadian at 78c. Boats continue very scarce and freights are unsettled; some forwarders are asking 22c. a 23c. on flour and 8c. a 8½c. on wheat to New York. Canal freights—Flour, 30 bushels wheat, 500 bushels oats, 5,400 bushels rye. Canal exports—593 bbls. flour, 24,800 bushels wheat, 5,000 bushels corn, 3,000 bushels barley.

CHICAGO, Oct. 19, 1859.

Flour firm. Wheat quiet, at 81c. for spring. Corn steady. Oats quiet. Receipts—Flour, 6,000 bbls. 65,000 bushels wheat, 6,500 bushels corn, 10,000 bushels oats. Shipments—2,200 bbls. flour, 30,000 bushels wheat.

MILWAUKEE, Oct. 19, 1859.

Flour very dull and scarce, sales at $4 37 a $5. Wheat of all grades quiet and declined 3c.; white western, $1 10 a $1 17; red spring, 85c. a 86c. Oats firm at a decline of 2c. Barley dull.

DETROIT, Oct. 19, 1859.

MILWAUKEE, Oct. 19, 1859.

Flour active. Wheat active at 81c. Corn quiet and quotations nominal. Oats steady.

ACADEMY OF MUSIC—The second performance of the Opera season was more propitious than the first. The Academy on last night was attended by an audience much more numerous and a great deal more enthusiastic than that of Monday. The Opera was Flotow's "Martha," the principal roles by the new prima donna, Crestinzio; the tenor, Stigelli; the baritone, Ferri, both recent importations, and the basso, Junca, his first appearance here, as Silva. The tenor, although not prepossessing in appearance, made a sensation, and Ferri created a positive furore. All the airs were vociferously applauded, encored, and recalled after each act. The orchestra and chorus, under the able direction of Signor Muzio, were all that could be desired, and the whole performance seemed eminently satisfactory to the audience.

WINTER GARDEN—An extravaganza, taken from the French, and entitled "Chaiouni Hind," was produced here last night, and obtained a moderate degree of success, which was owing in a great degree to the clever acting of Miss Agnes Robertson, Messrs. Jefferson, Johnston and Pearson, and the superb scenery and costumes. The play has little or no merits of its own.

THE NEW YORK DEMOCRATIC VIGILANT ASSOCIATION—The report, in yesterday's paper, of the proceedings of the last meeting of the Reform Democratic Association, at the Fifth Avenue Hotel, is headed, "The New York Democratic Vigilance Association." This was not the name which was adopted by the gentlemen present as their permanent title, but was that which is given above, correctly, "The New York Democratic Vigilant Association."

RESPONSIBILITY OF RAILWAY COMPANIES—AN IMPORTANT VERDICT—The jury in a Circuit Court now sitting at Rochester, have awarded to Mrs. W. H. Perkins the sum of five thousand dollars as damages for the loss of her husband, who was killed on the Central Railroad by the breaking down of a bridge over the Saquoit creek, near Utica, some twelve months since. The railroad company contested the suit on the ground that Mr. Perkins was a deadhead. Upon the back of such free tickets the following is printed:

"Receive the bearer upon this free pass, in consideration thereof assumes all risks of accidents, and expressly agrees that the company shall not be liable under any circumstances, whether of negligence by their agents, or otherwise, for any injury to the person, life or property of the bearer, while upon the passenger leaving this ticket."

The Court held that in cases where damages resulted to persons riding on free tickets, the company is not liable unless it be shown that the damage proceeded from culpable carelessness, which would make the guilty party liable to indictment for manslaughter in the fourth degree. This case goes to the Appeals bench.

City Politics.

Last night was the time appointed for the meeting of the American Assembly Conventions, but the sagacity of the newspaper reporters failed to find the meeting places, as laid down in the official programme. The Conventions in the Third and Eighth districts adjourned over; in the Fourth district Geo. W. Warner was nominated, and John J. Gray in the Fifth district.

The Tammany Assembly Conventions for the Fourteenth and Fifteenth districts met last night, but adjourned without making nominations.

Brooklyn City News.

FIREMEN'S TORCHLIGHT PROCESSION—The firemen of the Western district have made extensive arrangements for a torchlight reception of Constitution engine No. 7, on their return from Philadelphia this evening. Some dozen companies and eight bands of music will form in procession on Fulton street at eight o'clock in the evening, when, after the arrival of No. 7, they will march through several streets, and finally wind up with a sumptuous repast at Military Garden.

Free Labor in the West Indies—Condition of Jamaica.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE NEW YORK HERALD.

NEW YORK, Oct. 1, 1859.

I have been for a long while a reader of your valuable journal, and I have observed with considerable interest from time to time very important articles and letters in its columns on the subject of immigration to the West India Islands.

It is unquestionably the extreme paucity of labor—an evil which no amount of productive duty could compensate—which has brought Jamaica and other once wealthy and prosperous colonies to the verge of ruin. In trespassing upon your columns with a few remarks regarding this all-important question, I flatter myself I shall receive the countenance of yourself as well as the consideration of your readers.

Where there exists, as in the island of Barbadoes, the essential condition of a large tract of country, being, where the relative position of master and laborer is not reversed, but rightly understood, there is no reason why free labor should not be successful under all grounds, compute successfully with compulsory labor, or in fact supplant it.

In Barbadoes, during the most palmy days of slavery, the exports of the island rarely never exceeded 30,000 tons; they now amount to 45,000 hogsheads, and more.

To what are we to attribute the difference between this island and that of Jamaica, possessed as the latter is of so many natural advantages? Simply to an inadequate amount of labor. In Barbadoes the negro, in fact, occupies the position of the master, and it is only with the greatest difficulty that labor can be obtained at all. The deportation for the remuneration of labor is in a well advised system of continuous self-supporting immigration, under judicious guidance and supervision.

The evidence on this point is of so positive a character that it is as anomaly indeed that the British government should aggravate the calamities of the planters by an obstinate adherence to a bigoted policy.

I maintain that the great, if not the sole cause, of this island's prosperous condition is the want of labor. It is, at all events, the greatest evil, and until it be removed or mitigated there can be no progressive improvement. On the contrary, matters must go from bad to worse. The immense tracts of beautiful, fertile mountains, and other uncultivated waste lands will only offer to the indolent negro congenial retreats to squat, where he can eke out an ignoble existence—a number of mental, moral and physical decadence, proving to the world that emancipation has been, as indeed it now is in Jamaica—a signal and disastrous failure.

This year the exports of sugar from Jamaica will not exceed 25,000 hogsheads; in 1833 they were 70,000, and during slavery they amounted to nearly double the latter figure, irrespective of coffee, cocoa, ginger and other staples, that of great importance, but now so insignificant in quantity as to be unworthy of allusion.

On a certain class of laborers Jamaica has enough and to spare, and would willingly exchange half of her supply of free laborers, less costly, but far more serviceable substitutes.

I will instance a few immigrants supplied by the home government:—

SALARIES PER ANNUM.

A Governor	£6,000
Bishop	4,000
Chief Justice	3,000
Vice Chancellor	2,000

The debts of Jamaica amount to about £800,000, and I believe the revenue is a deficient one. The extravagant expenditure of the Legislature, the land assessment, of £225,000 per annum. On this subject it is unnecessary to waste words.

It is a notorious fact and a notorious evil. The mal-administration of public affairs is a curse with which this unfortunate island is afflicted.

If England really wishes to crush the slave trade, and eventually to see the slave manumitted throughout the world, the most effectual means of doing so can now only be to render timely assistance, by the introduction of a sufficient body of laborers, into her West India colonies. Free labor, where legislation is fair, is the most productive and remunerative than slave labor. To quote from an article which I recently perused in one of the morning journals, referring to slave labor in the South, the writer says:—

"Nothing but our almost perfect monopoly in the production of the cotton, supplying half the world's commerce has enabled us to pay such intolerable prices for labor. The average value of the slaves in the United States, exclusive of capital representing an interest of $80 a year or $7 a month. The cost of slave labor is then equivalent to hired, providing for food, clothing, little luxuries, medical attendance, &c., and still leaving a clear saving of $7 a month. Is there any country of the world where unfortunate labor is so cheaply paid?"

But really, sir, Mr. Everett thoroughly grasped the question of the slave trade in his letter, dated Washington, December 1, 1852, to Mr. Stanton, the British Minister. He writes to him as follows:—

"I will but allude to an evil of the first magnitude, I mean the African slave trade, the abolition of which England and France take a lively interest—an evil which still forms a great reproach upon the civilization of Christendom, and prevents, in many parts of Africa, the rise, for which, it is to be feared, there is no hope of a complete remedy while Cuba remains a Spanish colony."

The pith of the extract I have italicized. NEMO.

Warranted Purely Vegetable.

All the ingredients in HEADLEY'S PILLS are purgative, and act in conjunction on open, detach, dissolve, cleanse, cool, heal, and carry out of the body whatever injures it. By being composed like the human system, they unite with the blood to search out and remove all bad humors. They dissolve the obstructions collected from the blood, and cure tuberculous ulcers, &c.; let them be in what part of the system they may. They improve no other, but do good. They carry away what that is good. They only remove what is bad. They assist nature, and do her work well. They are not to injure weak well. Their use has saved many a valuable life. THE NORTHERN PACIFIC MILITARY ROAD.

Interesting Account of the Expedition—Progress of the Road from Fort Benton to Walla-Walla—Description of the Route—Interesting Letter from Lieut. Gatlin to Mr. De Lacy.

OUR EXPEDITIONARY CORRESPONDENCE.

CAMP ON THE QUINN'S ALIKEE RIVER, 161 Miles from Walla-Walla, W. T., Aug. 9, 1859.

As the eyes of the whole country are at this time neatred towards the opening up of a great public highway stretching from the Pacific to the Atlantic coast, under the auspices of the "Northern Pacific Military Road Expedition," the points being Fort Walla-Walla and Fort Benton, the whole under the general supervision and charge of Lieut. Mullan, of the military engineers, relative to the successive steps in the progress, seems and incidents attending the construction of this road must necessarily be perused with intense interest by all; hence I have taken the liberty, from time to time, as leisure afforded itself, to "post" the HERALD thereupon.

I wrote to you last from our camp on the St. Joseph River, distant from the initial point of the line (Walla-Walla) a hundred and sixty nine miles. My letter gives a considerable portion of the progress, during the completion of the fathom wherewith to make the crossing of the St. Joseph; which, as usual, working parties and a corps of competent engineers were kept in advance, examining and effecting a general reconnoissance of the country in a line with or approaching the contemplated course of the road. The boat being finished, then, on the list of August, the usual "stock" of provisions, for Messrs. Gatlin, White, and Howard, with their supply train, under the direction of Lieutenant Egan, took up the line of march and effected the crossing of the river without accident or the slightest damage—the entire time spent in so doing amounting to three hours and a half.

Lieutenant Mullan gave orders for his train and command to move over on the 2d, and a beautiful bright Sunday eve found the expedition pleasantly in camp on the right bank of the stream. We remained at this point till the 5th, during which Messrs. Williamson and Squier, with a working party of Lieutenant Mullan's command, assisted with a detail from the soldiers, and were preparing and constructing the road hence to the Coeur d'Alene river. This work was truly laborious and tedious in character, and was well calculated to test the material of the men, who, with a zeal and energy scarcely ever equalled, sallied forth and labored for several days, cutting through a most dangerous and difficult canon for the distance of twelve miles. This passage being finished by the 5th, the command prepared to move onward.

While on the St. Joseph Lieutenant Mullan received an express from Lieutenant Wickliffe, commanding the post on the Colville post, at the hands of Quila Ium, a Coeur d'Alene chief, informing us that Quila Ium, Lolkaoolo and Mincoyne, three of the principal Coeur d'Alene chiefs, with their sons of power, and their people, and informed him of the determination of the Nez Percés not to go to war with the whites. This was quite a different story from that which we had from said quarter some three months since, which represented these scoundrels as being much disaffected and bellicose. Lieutenant Wickliffe, and it is reasonable to suppose that that tribe, finding that the road did not meet with their country as it was first contemplated to run it, have abandoned any hostile intentions they may have had. This is probably the correct version of the matter. These Nez Percés seem to be the terror of the mountains; they number seven hundred warriors, and hold a kind of balance of power. They, I understand, have passed through the country common to all Indian tribes before they can be made submissive, and to feel the power of our government. The sooner, then, that these scoundrels have a taste of it, the better will powder and balls the better will it be both for ourselves and them.

The passage of this military road through the Indian country, by the way, promises to disclose the true character of the different tribes. If we have their good will and friendship let us encourage it, but let us be prepared for peace; but, if they prove obstinate and disposed to annoy us, rather than manifest open hostility by committing depredations in our rear, and then make their escape, let those high in command immediately send out troops and exterminate the whole race. The policy that has been followed since entering the Oregon Territory, and which your correspondent to be the only true one to be instituted with them.

The government officers have, in all their intercourse, endeavored to impress them with the spirit of their master in the Indian country; hence, we have treated, by word and act, treated them as friends; but on the other hand, have taken good care to let them know what they may expect in the event of any of the Indians committing aught against our men, animals or property. And your correspondent would suggest to those who may pass through the country, to continue this course of conduct—justice blended with firmness.

The arrival of our express from the Palouse landing, on the 14th, bringing the Status mail up to 20th June, gave a pleasant turn to the dull and monotonous course of things in camp. All hearts were made glad by the announcement of "Hail! Hail!" and very soon after officer, gentleman and cook, could be described reading of "good news from home."

Now all animals having had a good rest in camp, we left the St. Joseph' August 5, and marching for twelve miles through the canyon spoken of above, camped on the Coeur d'Alene river, where we first met the Nez Percés Catholic mission. The working parties, with engineers, &c., have ahead, working and constructing a road from here to the mission. They will probably have reached us sufficiently far to enable us to march forward to-day or to-morrow.

Mr. W. W. de Lacy, who since the indisposition of Mr. Howard, at Fort Walla-Walla, has been in charge of a party running a line of levels from Walla-Walla to Fort Benton, having completed his labors, started from the mouth of Palouse August 1, and with party arrived here to-day. Mr. de Lacy has had most time of the party for last. All are well—Messrs. de Lacy, Mitchell, Smith and, Mitchell, engineers; Messrs. Hudson, Scully, Johnson and Graham, working parties, and Mr. Gatlin, who this morning by many of the Coeur d'Alenes, with their wives and children. The women offer mocassins for sale. Of course they continue to beg for powder and balls, and "need a shirt or blanket." You will hear from me again when arrived at the mission.

I append a copy of a letter received by Mr. de Lacy, while en route to join the main body of command, from Mr. A. J. Gale, Indian agent at Walla-Walla valley. As it refers to the disposition of the Nez Percés towards our party, I deem it a fit subject for publication. Up to this place, 151 miles of the road have been located, as good and practicable a wagon road, as could be built in any country of similar character.

OFFICE INDIAN AGENCY, WALLA-WALLA VALLEY, W. T., August 1, 1859.

FRIEND DE LACEY—I arrived here on Saturday from Weipu, in the Bitter Root Mountains, near the farthest line of the Reservation. I met there about 2,000 Nez Percés, with all the chiefs. I held a council with them, announced the confirmation of the treaty, which was well received by all the chiefs but Eagle-from-the-Light, who did not attend the council.

I learn that Lieutenant Mullan is apprehensive of serious trouble with the Nez Percés, and I am satisfied he is mistaken. As a matter of course there are many young men who are dissatisfied, but they can effect nothing. There are many of the Indians of the smaller tribes that are also dissatisfied, but they can effect nothing. I have no any formidable character, even if they had the courage to try it.

When I went to the Nez Percés country there was much dissatisfaction, as a matter of course, but my explanation of the true condition of things were satisfactory. They had heard a great many false stories that had excited their minds, which I believe my explanations will put right. For instance, there was an impression amongst many that they were to be deprived of all their lands by force, and that soldiers would come from another country against them this summer for that purpose. There are a great many of the Indians of the upper and lower Indians of the smaller tribes, who have always treated, and do yet want, to get the Nez Percés involved in a war, as the only means by which they think they can make a formidable resistance to the whites is by getting the Nez Percés, who hold the balance of power, implicated.

You have considerable experience with the Indians east of the Cascades, know the history of Governor Stevens' treaties, that they are now ratified, that the Indians are not to have any of the lands included in the quest, and only a portion to be purchased of them; and you can, by talking with many of them, disabuse their minds of any erroneous impressions.

There was a large assemblage of Indians, consisting of Spokanes, Pelouses, Cayuses, Walla-Wallas and Nez Percés, at a "council ground," north of Snake river, a few weeks since. They had considerable liquor, and indulged in considerable "old talk," which was only the boubbub of a few old men, and others, particularly the Nez Percés.

News from New Granada.

OUR CARTHAGENA NAVAL CORRESPONDENCE.

UNITED STATES STEAMER WAR SPE, LOUIS, CARTHAGENA, Sept. 25, 1859.

Movements of the Ship St. Louis—Disturbed State of the Province—Rebellion Against the Central Government—Action of the Insurgent Governor—Execution of a Professional Northern American Yankee in Port—Trade Dull—Report at Lunatic Asylum—Yellow Fever, &c.

The ship is under sailing orders, and I hasten to give you a brief synopsis of the news from here, from the period of my last communication up to date. The instructions of our commander have been such as to vest him with large discretionary powers in regard to prolonging his stay at this port, and we only leave it now to provision ship, &c., at Aspinwall.

In the present disturbed state of the country we could not depart without leaving some protection to the foreign residents, and that protection has very opportunely appeared by the arrival of her Brittanic Majesty's steam corvette Racer, from Jamaica.

The political difficulties of the country have steadily increased, and the Departments of Carthagena and Santa Martha may be said to be in a state of open rebellion against the central government. In the former martial law has been proclaimed, and many of the citizens have augmented the ranks of the rebel soldiery. No effort has been made to render the city of Carthagena secure in the anticipated struggle with the Bogota troops.

Governor Nieto, the rebel Governor, is at present at Mampos, a town seventy miles distant, where he has gone for the purpose of holding a conference with some of his constituents.

On the 2d inst. Nicolo Anto, a brown, was shot on the public plaza of the city. He confessed to eleven murders, besides the one for which he was condemned. Considerable excitement prevailed before the execution, for the brave fellow was the sympathetic idol of the poor people, whom, it seems, he had frequently befriended. Had it not been for a strong police force on the ground a riot would surely have occurred.

The bark Alnah put into this port in distress several days ago, all her officers and crew being prostrated with the Aspinwall fever. We have rendered her every assistance she demanded.

Vessels in search of a freight here find great difficulty in obtaining one. The principal article of export is caoutchouc; and as there is a regular line of vessels employed in the trade, it affords no opportunity for transient shipping.

It is reported that the Jamestown will proceed from Aspinwall to Jacmel, and the Sabine and Greytown; the Brooklyn and Saratoga at Vera Cruz, and the Preble occupied in surveying the harbor of Tuxpan, on the Atrato. The Savannah is daily expected at Aspinwall.

We sail to-morrow morning, at early dawn, and it is not without a pang of regret that we bid adieu to this charming spot, where we have experienced every hospitality from our Consul and other American residents.

The health of the ship is comparatively good.

Obituary.

M. THAYER, EX-DIRECTOR OF THE FRENCH POST OFFICE.

M. EDOUARD THAYER, Senator, and formerly Director General of the French Post Office, has expired in Paris, at the age of 66. M. Thayer, who was a pupil of the Polytechnic School, did not take any part in public affairs until the revolution of February, when as chef de bureau in the National Guard, he proved himself the fatal days of June a devoted defender of society; and received a severe wound. After the election of Louis Napoleon, on the 10th of December, he was appointed to the head of the Post Office, and rendered very important services. M. Thayer was connected with the most illustrious families of the Faubourg St. Germain, having married the Baroness Ladoucette. In 1852, he was named Counsellor of State on ordinary service; and in 1853 raised to the dignity of Senator. Possessed of a very large fortune, he always made generous use of it.

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL.

WEDNESDAY, Oct. 19, 1859.

The money market is again easier. At the discount brokers, there is a general complaint of a scarcity of good short paper. Good paper, under 90 days, goes readily to day as 6 per cent and at the legal rate. April paper, with two good names, passes without difficulty. On call, money is abundant and desirable securities at 5 & 5½ per cent. There is still considerable unwillingness to lend on second class paper, or any stock securities except first class.

There is nothing doing to-day in foreign exchange; the market will get open before Friday. The present indications are that the market will be lower, and that bills will hardly rule above the specie shipping point. The leading drawers, however, complain of the slow arrival of cotton bills for sale.

Slight as the movement has been during the week, it is in the wrong direction—an increase of loans and a decrease of specie. The increase of loans has been at New Orleans (where the bank strength fully justifies the step) and at Philadelphia, where the banks are only moderately expanded. It will be noticed that the specie average in the four cities is half a million lighter than it was a fort. night since. It is not probable that it will fall off much this year.

The stock market opened with some strength this morning, especially on Galena, Rock Island and Central. But at the close of the first board the market became weak, and between the boards prices declined a trifle; in the afternoon there was a fair average business dealt, and the general market closed quite steady. Canal was quite active throughout the day. The price opened at 74½, advanced to 74¾, and sold in the afternoon at 74½ bid. The earnings for the second week in October were $51,083, against $34,197 same week last year; increase, $16,886. The increase on this road is now equal to about $75,000 or $80,000 a month. Rock Island opened at 64½, sold at ¾, and closed at 64½ bid. The second week of October gave gross earnings equal to $23,116, against $21,966 same week last year, showing an increase this year of $1,150. Considerable heavy contracts have been made and the iron bought for the continuation of the Mississippi and Missouri Railroad west of Iowa City; this will be an important feeder to the Rock Island. Cleveland and Toledo declined to 19¾, closing at that bid. The earnings for the first fortnight of October were $24,718, against $36,631 same fortnight last year. It is to be remarked that the freight receipts on all these roads show a large increase over last year, the decline being in the passenger earnings, against which the general poverty of the people operates with marked effect. Michigan guaranteed was ¾ higher in the morning, closing in the afternoon at 16¾ bid. Reading was dull; between the boards it fell, from some unexplained cause, to 37¾, and closed 38¾ bid. We know of no cause for the decline which has lately taken place in this stock. Erie sold this morning as high as 24¾, and fell to 24¼ bid. Hudson River fell from 37½ to 37 75 is purely speculative, and has no real basis. New York Central sold at 80¾ at the first board, between the boards at 80½, and closed at 80¾ bid. The general impression appears to be that this stock is sustained by the efforts of a leading operator, who has generally been identified with the bear party. State stocks were higher to-day. Missouris sold as high as 65¾. In railroad bonds very little was done. The following were the closing prices of the day:—Missouris, 64¾ @ 65; Illinois Central, 93¾; Pacific Mail, 71¼ @ 72; New York Central, 80¾ @ 81; Erie, 24¼ @ 25; Hudson River, 35¾ @ 36; Harlem, 95¾ @ 96; do. preferred, 58¾ @ 59; Reading, 38¾ @ 37¾; Michigan Central, 42¾ @ 43¾; Michigan Southern, 45¾ @ 45; do. guaranteed, 16¾ @ 16; Panama, 123 @ 125; Illinois Central, 67¾ @ 68; Galena and Chicago, 74¼ @ 75; Cleveland and Toledo, 19¾ @ 20; Chicago and Rock Island, 64¾ @ 65.

There was a large and important sale of bank and other stock securities to-day, to close up the estate of the late James Mills, in his life time President of the Bowery Savings Bank. The securities sold realized, in general, very high prices indeed. We note among other quotations a sale of Brooklyn Bank stock at $207¾. This stock was worth a few years ago, $75 and $80. It owes its present value to the manner in which the bank was administered by the late cashier, Mr. Hector Morrison, who had the entire management of the bank in his hands, the office of president being a sinecure.

The following plan is said to have been filed by the Erie Railroad Company as an answer to the suit of a bondholder who sues for his money:—

City and County of New York, ss.—The answer of the above named defendants shows to this Court. To the several causes of action in the plaintiff's complaint set forth, and to each of the several causes of action, the defendants answer as follows:—

First. That the defendants have no knowledge or information and belief whether the several interest warrants in each of the three several causes of action mentioned have been duly presented for payment, and payment has been duly demanded, and whether more than twenty days have elapsed since the presentation thereof; and therefore the defendants controvert these facts.

Fourth. That the stockholders of said company never assented to the issue of said several bonds.

Therefore the defendants demand judgment and the costs of this action.

E. ROELKER & F. W. MARBURY, Defendants' Attorneys, No. 76 Beaver street.

City and County of New York, ss.—Frederick W. Pike, being duly sworn, says that he is the Secretary of the New York and Erie Railroad Company; that the foregoing answer is true to his own knowledge, except as to the matters therein stated upon information and belief, and as to these matters he believes it to be true.

HIRAM TO. GITS, Secretary.

Sworn to before me, this 17th day of October, 1859. JOHN O'BRIEN, Notary Public.

The foregoing answer proves to be in the highest degree disgraceful to the company, and if preserved in will entirely destroy public confidence in the honesty of its managers. We confess that we are surprised that Mr. Samuel Marsh, who is now President, and whose character for integrity stands high, should have suffered such a plea to be set forth. This is not the first intimation the public have had that the Erie Company, if driven to money is determined to repudiate its bonds; for the honor of New York, and the personal credit of the present directors, it should be promptly disavowed.

We believe that there is a probability that the November interest on the second mortgage bonds of the Michigan Southern Railroad will be paid at Toledo at maturity. The directors meet at that place to-morrow.

The following was the business of the Sub-Treasury to-day:—

Total receipts	$619,436 85
For customs	167,000 00
Total payments	1,455,000 00
Balance	4,806,299 47

The following dividends have been declared:—The Kercharts' Insurance Company, of Boston, has declared a semi-annual dividend of 8 per cent; the Minnesota Mining Company, a dividend of 84 per share, payable on the 1st of November.

Sale of stocks by Adrian H. Muller:—

By order of John Laidlaw and Francis Bee, executors of the estate of James Mills, deceased:—$12,000 United States 6 per cent stock; 1870, and 1st; $9,000 New York State 6 per cent stock, 1860; $1,000 do. do. ANOTHER STEREOSCOPIC CASE.

Valuable Goods Confiscated to the Government.

UNITED STATES DISTRICT COURT.

Before the Hon. Judge Ingersoll.

OCT. 19.—The United States vs. One case marked F. J. E., containing optical instruments and stereoscopes. This is another suit brought by the government for the confiscation of a case of optical instruments valued at about 4,500 francs, because they contained some stereoscopes which the authorities seized as indecent and obscene. The views were exhibited in Court and did not appear to be such as would shock the community. There were groups of girls displaying their legs encased in stockings, and vieing for the palm of symmetry; then a half bared bust was visible, but several respectable dealers in the articles deposed that such kinds were daily sold and that they did not consider the thing indecent or obscene. The Collector, who had been entitled to the seizure, and the views were exhibited to the Court and jury.

Lewis Schoff, for defence, deposed that he imports stereoscopic views; I don't think those views are indecent or obscene; I have seen duplicates of those exposed in windows for sale; I have sold similar views myself; I never heard any objection made to those pictures; heard one person make a remark about them after I had exposed them; I have collected about 1,000 pictures; groups were first imported here about two years and a half ago; photographs, I think, were imported before; I have seen photographs of pictures as those on trial exhibited in the windows of importers and dealers who stand very high in the community.

Cross-examined by Mr. Hunt, Assistant District Attorney—I am a man of family; [picture produced representing a group of ladies being on their garters;] I would not object to have that picture hung in my parlor; [picture produced of women in a partly nude state;] I don't consider this indecent; I might not like to have it exposed on my table at my house; I do not consider that indecent; indecent unless the person is exposed; there are one or two souls peeping against myself.

Lewis Schoff, another dealer in similar articles, deposed that he sold such views to the young and old people; not to ladies (views produced); they are not obscene or indecent; have sold duplicates of those; never heard any one object to them as indecent or obscene.

Cross-examined—Would have no objection to have this group (of a naked girl) hung in my parlor.

By the Court—What do you consider indecent? A. Naked figures. Q. What do you consider obscene? A. Double pictures of males and females.

Theodore Bollenhagen, also a dealer in photographs, &c., deposed that he sold to the amount of five or six thousand dollars; has sold pictures similar to those produced; never heard any one object to them as indecent or obscene; has sold similar views to ladies.

Cross-examined—They were purchased as ladies of respectable character; not French or German ladies.

Mr. Clark, for the claimant, argued that the goods were not of that description that the jury should find indecent, for by that verdict a valuable consignment of optical instruments would be confiscated; there is no doubt, he thought, but there is not such as are daily sold, were contained in the package.

Mr. Dwight summed up in behalf of the government mainly as follows:—In this suit, gentlemen of the jury, you are to examine the case in only one aspect—to determine in your minds only one question. The duties in question are those which do not bear directly upon the point at issue—Are these stereoscopic views, which are shown to be a part of the goods proceeded against, and which were imported with them, indecent and obscene? That here question is all you are called upon to determine. The circumstances of the importation, the character of the other goods seized, the proportion of these views to the general amount of the goods, are entirely immaterial matters, to be left out of mind in examining this case and determining you in your verdict. And in determining the question you have two sides—the representations of the witnesses produced on the one side and the other, and secondly, your personal inspection of the views, and your minds cannot help being influenced by the evidence on the part of the government four witnesses—two of them Custom House appraisers, gentlemen of character and intelligence, and two (Mr. Appleton and Mr. Schoff) dealers of standing and respectability. These four witnesses, gentlemen, all say these views are indecent—such as they would not exhibit to their wives and children, such as they would not have in their houses, such as they would not offer for sale. On the part of the claimants there were also introduced four witnesses—one of whom, bear in mind, gentlemen, it appears are interested in cases in which the government claims the forfeiture of their property—two dealers in this; and therefore, perhaps, they are not entirely unprejudiced in their opinions. Of those witnesses (all of whom are dealers) not one considers these views indecent—not even to go further and give their definition of indecency. They say that a picture is indecent only when it exhibits the naked form of male or female. I am sure, gentlemen, you will not give a much broader definition of this phrase, and say that there are many pictures which are indecent when even no exposure of the body is made. In the opinion of these witnesses, allow me to offer what I consider as the test and standard of indecency. That is, anything which will promptly excite impure thoughts or feelings in the mind, what the article or picture in itself, but the emotions it excites. The group of Cupid and Psyche in the Capitol is viewed with pleasure, and excites no impure thoughts in the face of the refined young of either sex. But place a naked man and woman in such an attitude, and the world would not turn away disgusted, but would be attracted to many other instances to elucidate and explain the same idea. Three of these witnesses, gentlemen, state that they were born in the country, and have resided there, you must consider that the tone of morality and the views of decency or indecency are very different from those in this country. You are to judge only by the tone of morality and decency here. Congress does not legislate for Germany or France, but for the United States. For these educated here, in our schools and academies and churches, and not for those who may be under different influences in other lands. And therefore the morality and decency you are to protect by your verdict. And in your own opinions, gentlemen, which is also a legitimate source of decision, you have your own standard of dec

CHAPTER 271.

An act to submit to the people a law authorizing a loan of two million five hundred thousand dollars to pay the debt of the State. Passed April 13, 1859.

The People of the State of New York, represented in Senate and Assembly, do enact, as follows:

Sec. 1. The Commissioners of the Canal Fund are hereby authorized to borrow on the credit of the State the sum of five hundred thousand dollars, at a rate not exceeding six per cent per annum, to be made payable at such times, and on such terms, as shall be prescribed by said Commissioners, and exceeding eighteen years from the time of making such loan. All the provisions of law in relation to loans for the Sinking Fund, and to the Canal Fund, and the issue and transfer of certificates of stock, shall apply to loans authorized by this act, so far as the same are applicable.

Sec. 2. The money realized by such loan shall be applied exclusively to the payment of claims against the State not otherwise provided for, and to the payment of the principal of the debt, and for private property appropriated by the State for the use of canals, and for damages to property by reason of the growing out of the construction of the canals, or to pay the principal and the interest of such loans, and for no other purpose whatever.

Sec. 3. Two million five hundred thousand dollars is hereby appropriated to the use of the Canal Department, from the said moneys, to be drawn from the loan from the State Treasury, and to be for the payment of claims against the State, specified in the schedule which being every part of the city, the only one the law authorized by this act, which shall become payable hereafter directed to be levied and collected, for the payment of the interest on the principal of the debt, and for the payment of any sum applied to pay interest as aforesaid may be levied, collected and paid to the Treasurer of the State in the manner prescribed by the Sinking Fund Commissioners, and paid into the treasury under the section shall continue a sinking fund to be paid for interest and principal, and the sum so contracted pursuant to this act, and shall be sacredly applied to the payment of the debt of the State, and shall be sufficient to comply with the requirements of this section, the Comptroller shall increase the sum to be thereafter to be levied and collected for a sinking fund, pay up to the principal of the debt for the purpose aforesaid.

Sec. 4. The foregoing section of this act, imposing a tax, may be repealed whenever the revenues of the canals, after meeting the ordinary and incidental charges, shall be sufficient to pay enough to form a sinking fund sufficient to pay the interest and redeem the principal of the loans within the eighteen years mentioned in the preceding section.

Sec. 6. This act shall be submitted to the people of this State at the next general election, when the ballots for and against it shall be endorsed "Constitutional Loan," and shall be in the following words: "Shall the loan of two million five hundred thousand dollars, to pay the sinking debt of the State, be made?" "Against the loan of two million five hundred thousand dollars, to pay the sinking debt of the State." Ballots for and against the loan of two million five hundred thousand dollars, to pay the sinking debt of the State, shall provide a separate box, in which the ballots given in the proportion of the act shall be deposited. The boxes shall be opened and the ballots shall be counted, and the result declared and certified in the same manner as votes given for the office of Governor of the State. The Canal Commissioners, pursuant to this act, shall be "for a loan of two million five hundred thousand dollars, to pay the sinking debt of the State." and the ballots for and against the loan of this act shall take effect; but if a majority of the votes so cast shall be "against the loan of two million five hundred thousand dollars, to pay the sinking debt of the State," then the said proposal shall not take effect, but shall be of no force and effect.

GIDEON J. TUCKER, Secretary of State.

SALES OF REAL ESTATE.

COAL WITHOUT DOBT.—TO MANUFACTURERS, Builders and real estate buyers. Peremptory public sale on Saturday, Feb. 4, a few hours before dark, from the cities of New York, Philadelphia, Baltimore, Albany, Trenton, Oswego, Erie, Buffalo, &c.; on Wednesday morning, October 26, at 11 o'clock, at the Sycamore Hotel, Tioga Point, borough of Athens, 3 miles from Sayre, containing about 800 building lots, 40 by 140 feet each, beautifully situated on Sycamore street, 100 feet wide, the whole property of Sanford Meadow Brook, with a fall of twenty-six feet, in respect to the main road, and the picture of the city plan. Gas is already generally introduced. The receipts from the sales of coal and merchandise of iron already amount to about six millions of dollars per annum. Are peremptory prospects to manufacturers, generally. An unlimited supply of water, of the purest and best quality is guaranteed, at the breakers, near by, in perpetual, for building, for manufacturing and for the use of coal. The labor of thousands of children, whose parents are employed in the factories from age of ten and sixteen, can be had at low rates. From a few families eight or nine years ago, the population now numbers nearly thirty thousand souls. The daily railroad communication in all directions, ensures a supply of raw material, and facility for the distribution of manufactured articles, at the lowest rates, and together with the fertility of the Lackawanna valley, of provisions at minimum prices. The experience of the past two years having induced a conviction with many manufacturers in favor of Athens as the point at which their business could be profitably located and economically based as to defy competition, induces the owner of this property to offer a liberal share of it, peremptorily.

Title will be put up with the priority of a block on a circle of two and three years—20 per cent only, in cash, being required at time of sale. All nuisances prohibited. Sale to be actual place furnished gratis. Map of Athens can cost thee $250 permitted on the premises. Builders can readily obtain. It is intended to give a special opportunity to small capitalists, to realize, to exchange.—PINSON & HOLDEN, Attorneys, No. 9 Newman street and 13 Pine street.
