THE NATIONAL CALAMITY.

Into the future it is not permitted to any of us to look; it seems to us dark and full of trouble. The clock of the world seems to have been suddenly set backward, and the shadow on the dial seems to have receded. Let us, however, in the horror which we feel at the great crime which has taken place, be calm. Let us act as a great and thoughtful people, trusting to God, who has guided us so long. I know, Sir, that you and your associates and all the Bar would feel disinclined to enter upon any business on this day except what is absolutely indispensible, and therefore, I rise, before any business whatever is transacted, to move that the court do now adjourn.

Mr. JOHN GRAHAM arose to second the motion. He spoke with great feeling, and in a strain of unusual pathos. He said:

May it please the Court: I feel almost beyond the power of commanding language upon this fearful occasion. The sad news which has reached us this morning has translated this nation from a condition of extreme joy into that of most excessive grief. It is not the individual ABRAHAM LINCOLN who has alone fallen by the hand of an assassin, but it is the lawful and constitutional head as well of what I believe to be the greatest government upon the face of this earth. In the lesson which has been read to us within the last twenty-four hours, we can fully realize the trite saying that "Death loves a shining mark." There is no place so high but what it can be reached by death; there is no place so lofty but what that greatest of all archers has an arrow with which to strike down its possessor.

All that was of our late President has now passed into the history of the country. His Presidential term which is just ended, and the term upon which he had just entered, are probably the most memorable periods of Executive administration in the history of this country. It cannot be expected upon this occasion, considering the suddenness with which these fearful tidings have reached us, that anything like justice can be done to the memory of the deceased. I rise for the purpose of adding in the eloquent tribute which has just been paid to the fearful event, from the influence of which we are now suffering, and to second the motion that this Court, in view of this afflictive dispensation, refrain from all business for this day.

Chief Justice ROBERTSON then said: This court, in common with all the community, enters into the deep and general grief, and I am at a loss to choose the proper word to express the feelings of myself and my associates at this blow which has so suddenly fallen upon us; the more so because it is difficult in circumstances so awful and sudden to know where first to turn our eyes—whether we look at the deprivation of a family of its head—by a nation of its Chief Executive, the leader and controller of all its measures in the suppression of an unnatural and desperate rebellion—whether we look at the feeling which has become rife in the land, that permits an attempt of this kind to be made and to be successful, and the thought that we may hereafter be subject to acts of this kind—all overwhelm us with grief and a deep and earnest apprehension as to the future of this country. It is not the blow alone—heavy as that is—but that of which it may be the precursor. It comes, too, at a time when the community was rejoicing at the suppression of this hydra-headed rebellion—at a time when the heart of the President, always kindly, was turned to thoughts of how best to assuage the evils of this horrible strife, and at a time when we can least spare one whose long experience at the head of affairs, whose uprightness and integrity of character had gained the full confidence of the people; [and we are almost tempted to wonder at the astonishing dispensation of Providence in removing him at such a time from the head of the government. It would be idle for me to add anything to the remarks made by the members of the bar; I respond heartily to all that has been said, and think it but right that this Court should pay the deepest tribute of respect to the memory of the deceased, and to our own feelings by adjourning without engaging in any secular business. The Clerk will make an entry of the motion, and that this court do now adjourn.

The members of the court and the people present then silently separated.

SUPREME COURT CHAMBERS, APRIL 15—JUDGE BARNARD PRESIDING.

After several motions for the postponement of causes had been made, the Court directed the following order to be made and entered by the clerk on the minutes:

SUPREME COURT CHAMBERS, April 15, 1865.

This branch of the Court stands adjourned to Tuesday morning, April 18, at 10½ o'clock, in consequence of the death of President LINCOLN. All motions and orders returnable on Monday, stand adjourned to Tuesday, the 18th of April. By order of the Court.

WM. C. CONNER, Clerk.

THE COMMON PLEAS.

In this court, Judge BOSWORTH presiding, adjourned on his own motion, without having transacted any business. He expressed great sorrow that an occurrence so painful and shocking should have befallen the nation at this period—regarding the assassination of Mr. LINCOLN as a crime unprecedented, and his death at this crisis in our history the most deplorable of all the calamities to which our country has been subjected since the war began.

COURT OF SPECIAL SESSIONS.

HON. Judges DODGE, DOWLING and LEDWITH presiding.

The following were the proceedings relative to the death of President LINCOLN in this court.

The court having been duly opened, Mr. GUNNING S. BEDFORD, Jr., Assistant District-Attorney addressed the court as follows:

MAY IT PLEASE THE COURT:—The startling news just received we can scarcely realize. ABRAHAM LINCOLN, our President, is no more. He has fallen by the weapon of a dastardly assassin, whose blow was aimed less at the life of our Chief Magistrate than at the nation's heart. From the height of hope, joy and triumph, the country is plunged into the depths of mourning and sorrow.

Mr. LINCOLN lived in stirring times; his responsibilities were immense. His faults, if any, let us not now remember—his honesty and tenacity of purpose we all must admire.

The people's course is plain. Let every effort be put forth to arrest and punish the cowardly perpetrators of this wicked deed. Let rewards be offered—let every nerve be strained until the majesty of the law is vindicated.

I now move that this court adjourn.

REMARKS OF FREDERICK H. B. BRYAN.

I beg leave to second the motion of the learned Assistant District-Attorney, feeling as we all must do the lamentable event which has just occurred, of the death of the President of the United States by the hand of an assassin, particularly at this time when the happening of recent events tended toward the peace of the country. The late President was re-elected, not so much as a choice of the man, as the exponent of the principle of the unity of the country, and we must all deplore sympathise with the nation under the pressure of this great calamity, when the wise and amicable measures pursued by the late President promised peace and happiness. I, therefore, move the adjournment of this court to the next most convenient day.

Hon. Judge DODGE, the presiding justice, said the court fully concurred in the motion made by the District Attorney and the learned gentleman who had seconded the motion.

The court then adjourned.

THE CITY DEPARTMENTS.

The balcony of the City Hall was draped with black and white crape, and the flags floated mournfully at half-mast. The chamber of the Board of Supervisors was hung with crape, and the Comptroller's offices also displayed the emblems of mourning. The Mayor's office, the Surrogate's, the Comptroller's and nearly all the other public offices were closed at noon.

THE COUNTY VOLUNTEER COMMITTEE.

This committee met yesterday and adopted the following resolutions:

Whereas, The melancholy intelligence of the death of the President of the United States, and of the murderous attack upon Secretary SEWARD and his respected son, has this moment been received, and

Whereas, An event so startling, sudden, solemn and afflicting to the nation is well calculated to and does awaken feelings of the most serious character, uniting us for the consideration and transaction of public or private business; therefore

Resolved, That the committee do now adjourn.

OFFICIAL ANNOUNCEMENT FROM GEN. DIX.

HEADQUARTERS DEPARTMENT OF THE EAST, NEW-YORK CITY, April 15, 1865

GENERAL ORDERS, No. 20.—The Major-General in command, with the deepest sorrow, announces to the Department that ABRAHAM LINCOLN, President and Commander-in-Chief of the Armies and Navy of the United States, died this morning at 7:20. Commanding officers of the different posts and camps in this department will, on the day following the receipt of this order, cause a gun to be fired at every half hour, beginning at sunrise and ending at sunset. The flags will be kept at half staff from sunrise to sunset each day until after the termination of the funeral obsequies at the capital, or until further instructions.

By command of Maj.-Gen. PECK.

D. T. VAN BUREN, Col. and Asst.-Adj.-Gen.

Official: WILSON FARNHAM, Aid-de-camp.

THE SEVENTH REGIMENT.

HEADQUARTERS SEVENTH REGIMENT, NATIONAL GUARD, S. N. Y., NEW-YORK, April 15 1865

GENERAL ORDER No. 3. In view of the great calamity that has befallen the nation in the death of its beloved Chief Magistrate, General Orders No. 8, (for the illumination of the Regimental Armory and the celebration of the recent victories,) is hereby countermanded.

The Armory Committee will immediately drape the Regimental Armory and the Council Room of the Board of Officers with mourning, and the committees of the several companies are directed to drape their respective rooms with the usual emblems of mourning. By order of

Col. EMMONS CLARK.

J. H. LIEBENAN, Adjutant.

THE ANNOUNCEMENT TO OUR FOREIGN DIPLOMATIC AGENTS.

Mr. J. C. DERBY, United States Dispatch Agent, received the following telegram yesterday, to be forwarded to our diplomatic agents abroad by the European steamer:

The sad duty devolves upon me to announce the assassination of the President, at Ford's Theatre, last night, by a pistol-shot from a person who entered his box for the purpose.

The assassin escaped, but has since been arrested.

The President died at 7:30 o'clock this morning.

Vice-President JOHNSON has assumed the functions of President, having been sworn in by the Chief-Justice. About the same time an attempt was made by, it is believed, a different person to assassinate Mr. SEWARD, but the murderer only succeeded in inflicting painful and severe wounds, principally upon his face. Mr. F. W. SEWARD was beaten over the head with a heavy weapon in the hands of the person who attacked his father, and is seriously hurt. His brother was also wounded by the dagger of the assassin, as was Mr. HANSELL, a messenger of the department, who was with the Secretary and the male nurse in attendance.

WM. HUNTER,

Acting Secretary of State.

BROADWAY SYNAGOGUE.

The services at the Broadway Synagogue were more than ordinarily impressive yesterday, by the sad and mournful reflections excited because of the assassination of the lamented President of the United States. In lieu of the usual "Prayer for the Government," the Rev. S. M. ISAACS briefly and feelingly addressed the congregation, speaking of the appalling calamnity that had befallen the nation in the foul murder of its good, wise and beloved Chief Magistrate, and the great statesman of the age. He reflected the gloom and despondency universally felt as the terrible intelligence burst upon the nation at the hour when public gratitude was ascending to heaven for the bright prospect of speedy peace and reunion. There was not a lover of his race, a lover of liberty, but would profoundly mourn the country's loss. He would not attempt to pierce the future, which now seemed so dark and threatening. In the hands of God was the destiny of the nation.

The Reverend gentlemen then offered a fervent and earnest prayer that God would bless the United States, and be with the people in their hour of trial, and so direct the mind and counsels of the successor of ABRAHAM LINCOLN, that he might safely pilot the Ship of State through the perils and storms that threatened its safety.

During the address, the congregation were visibly affected, minister and auditory being moved to tears.

THE HEBREW SYNAGOGUE IN TWELFTH-STREET.

At morning prayer the synagogue was draped with black. Rev. Dr. ADLER attempted to say a few words in relation to the awful event which had occurred, but was so overcome by his feelings that he was compelled to desist. The congregation then rose, and as if by a simultaneous impulse, repeated the Kadusch—a prayer for the nearest deceased relative. After which they were dismissed.

THE NATION'S LOSS.

At the earnest solicitation of a number of citizens, Miss EMMA HARDINGE will deliver an oration on the great calamity that has befallen the country in the death of ABRAHAM LINCOLN. The lady's ability, as well as her personal knowledge of the life and career of the President, warrants the opinion that she will do justice to the sad, yet noble theme. The public are invited to attend, and a large audience will doubtless greet the speaker, who has volunteered her services.

ACADEMY OF DESIGN.

The National Academy of Design passed the following resolution yesterday in council:

Resolved, That the council of the National Academy of Design hear with profound grief of the assassination of ABRAHAM LINCOLN, the late beloved President of the United States.

Resolved, That we cherish a deep reverence for his great character and inestimable services to our country, and to the cause of freedom throughout the world.

Resolved, That we devoutly pray Almighty God to save our country from disaster while suffering from the exhilaration of this base and cowardly murder, the natural fruit of treason and slavery.

Resolved, That, in respect for the memory of our honorable Chief Magistrate, the ceremony of the inauguration of the Academy Building and the opening of the Exhibition be postponed.

Published by order,

J. ADDISON RICHARDS,

Corresponding Secretary, N. A. D.

Due notice will be given of the opening of the exhibition.

ARREST OF MEN FOR REJOICING AT THE DEATH OF PRESIDENT LINCOLN—JOY TURNED TO SADNESS—SUMMARY JUSTICK BY JUDGE DOWLING.

On Saturday morning, GEORGE WELLS, better known as "Southern GEORGE," while conversing with an acquaintance at the corner of Chatham and Pearl streets, made use of the following language, in referring to the assassination of President LINCOLN: "Old ABE, the son of a ——, is dead, and he ought to have been killed long ago." Serg't. WALSH, of the Sixth Precinct, who heard the villainous remark, knocked the scoundrel down. WELLS was then taken before Justice DOWLING, at the Tombs, who, in default of $1,000 bail to keep the peace, sent him to the Penitentiary for six months.

Officer MCWATERS, of the Twenty-sixth Precinct, arrested JOHN GALLAGHER, said to be a stage-driver, for disorderly conduct, tending to a breach of the peace, in saying that "it served ABE LINCOLN right—that he ought to have been shot long ago; it would have stopped this war." Justice DOWLING sentenced the prisoner to the Penitentiary for six months, in default of $1,000 bail.

Officer DANIELS, of the Second Precinct, arrested WM. FANNING, on the complaint of Mr. GEORGE W. BLUNT, of No. 179 Water-street. Mr. BLUNT and a friend were partaking of refreshments in Fulton Market, and were conversing about the assassination of the President, when FANNING interrupted them, making use of abusive language about President LINCOLN. An exciting and indignant crowd threatened to visit FANNING with personal violence, when Officer DANIELS took him before Justice DOWLING, who sent him to the Penitentiary.

On Saturday morning, a man whose name is unknown, used blasphemous and insulting language about the late President at a newspaper stand in the Bowery. He was immediately attacked and knocked down by an indignant crowd, but regaining his feet, he made his escape, the crowd following him for several blocks.

NOTICE FROM COLLECTOR DRAPER.

CUSTOM-HOUSE, NEW-YORK, COLLECTOR'S OFFICE, April 15, 1865.

To all persons attached to the Customs Department of the District of New-York:

SIRS: Anticipating your proposed resolution in such regard, I hereby announce to you that it will be in order to wear crape on the left arm for thirty days, next succeeding this date, as an emblem of honor and respect to our departed President.

S. DRAPER, Collector.

THE THEATRES, ETC.

The managers of our various places of amusement were among the first to pay that poor, but only available mark of respect to the dead which finds its expression in closed doors, dark lights, deserted offices. Early in the morning two of our leading managers resolved that they would abandon the plan of the day. Their example was immediately followed by every theatre in the city. There was a temporary opposition on the part of one only. This was the Olympic, where a person, who acts in some way as the superior of Mrs. JOHN WOOD, positively refused to accede to the proposition, alleging, we are informed, that he was not in a position to postpone a benefit, which was to take place in the evening. There was to have been an afternoon performance also, and this, probably, was another obstacle. It was only when the artists of the company emphatically refused to act, that the churl consented unwillingly to close his doors. Mrs. JOHN WOOD, we are sure is in no way implicated in the affair. It is, nevertheless, unfortunate that it should have occurred at her theatre.

The profession is not free from its taint of treason, but there was but one feeling yesterday. It was stated, however, that a vagabond at Niblo's Garden expressed his satisfaction at the calamity which has overtaken the nation. We were unable to learn his name. It is Mr. WHEATLEY's duty at once to discover this, and hand the culprit over to an officer.

Until the funeral of Mr. LINCOLN there will be no more amusements in New-York. Superintendent KENNEDY has issued an order to that effect.

The Wehli and de Katow Matinée, at Irving Hall, and Mlle. STELLA BONHEUR's concert, at the same establishment, were both postponed. So also the Brooklyn Philharmonic Concert. The opening of the National Academy of Design has, of course, been deferred.

The Melo-Chorean ball was to have taken place on Monday next, but the committee have postponed it until Monday, May 1.

BROOKLYN MAYOR'S PROCLAMATION.

The news of the death of President LINCOLN fell upon the people of this city like a pall. The flags on the public buildings were displayed at half-mast, as were also the flags of private residences throughout the city generally. The following proclamation by the acting Mayor was issued, the actual Mayor being so much prostrated by the sad news that he was unable to attend to his duties:

MAYOR'S OFFICE, CITY HALL, BROOKLYN, April 15, 1865—10 o'clock, A. M.

The President of the United States has been murdered at the national capitol by an assassin. The history of our country affords no parallel to a crime under all the circumstances so heinous and atrocious. It will be received by the people as a national calamity, and will weigh down their hearts with grief and mourning.

Accepting it as a part of my duty to give direction to the manifestation of mourning which the occasion demands from the municipal authorities, as the representatives of the people, I hereby direct that the public offices be closed, the flags be displayed at half-mast, and that the bells be tolled from 12 to 1 o'clock, P. M.

To my fellow-citizens I recommend a general closing of their places of business, the wearing of the usual badge of mourning, and such other manifestation of feeling as is proper on so solemn an occasion.

D. D. WHITNEY, Acting Mayor.

JERSEY CITY.

An almost entire suspension of business was the marked characteristic of Jersey City. The fire-bell rang minute peals; the flags were hoisted at half-mast over dwellings and ferry-boats, and a general air of sadness and excitement prevailed. The stores of the principal citizens, Messrs. Corkendale, King, Lee, Hayn's, Moffat, and many others, were veiled in deep mourning, as well as the various newspaper offices, the Hudson County Insurance Company, the American Telegraph Office, and a lot of private dwellings and business offices. The Mayor, ORESTES CLEVELAND, called a public meeting of citizens, at which resolutions were passed appropriate to the dreadful calamity which called them forth.

HOBOKEN.

On waiting upon Mayor TERRY, we found that the steps proper to be taken had not yet been decided upon. In the meantime, as in other places, an almost universal closing of stores and suspension of business marked the gloom and sorrow felt all over the city. The Mayor's house, the engine houses and the chief hotels were hung with crape, and the insignia of death were displayed by Messrs. Fehr, Born, Cadmus, Schneider, W. T. Curtis, C. L. Cortelyou, W. Scheikart, and a large number of other prominent citizens. The ferry-boats bore their colors at half-mast, and horror and deep grief were the universal sentiment.

Feeling in the Country.

BALTIMORE, Saturday, April 15.

Business at the Corn and Stock Exchange is entirely suspended. The streets are thronged, notwithstanding the rain, with people anxious to learn the particulars of the assassinations.

Some indignation was manifested this morning by a crowd on Baltimore-street, in regard to the obnoxious pictures displayed by certain photographers conspicuous for their disloyalty.

The likeness of Marshal KANE, of 19th of April notoriety, was taken down by the crowd from ISRAEL's show-case, and thrown into the street and stamped upon by the people.

BEUPAU's photographic gallery was also visited, but the proprietors prudently removed certain obnoxious pictures.

It was rumored that this last establishment had in hand a picture of BOOTH, the assassin, who, by the way, is well known here, this being his native city.

This picture, however, was removed before the mob reached the place, or serious consequences might have resulted.

The military and police authorities are making every effort to preserve the peace. All avenues and roads around it are strongly guarded and vigorous search is going on in the hope of possibly capturing one or both of the assassins who may have fled in this direction.

HALIFAX, N. S., Saturday, April 15.

Upon the announcement of President LINCOLN's death, the Parliament of Nova Scotia adjourned, and the flags on the Government House, the Citadel, the American Consulate and the American vessels in port, were at half-mast. Deep sympathy prevails in the minds of the friends of the Union.

The blockade-runner Colonel Lamb was gaily decked with flags.

AUBURN, N. Y., Saturday, April 15.

The city is draped in mourning. All the business places are closed. The most intense grief and indignation prevails among the people.

SYRACUSE, N. Y., Saturday, April 15.

The most intense excitement prevails among all classes of the community. Bells were tolled this morning throughout the city. Public and private buildings are heavily draped in mourning. All places of business are closed, and the deepest sorrow is universal.

PITTSBURGH, Penn., Saturday, April 15.

The assassination of President LINCOLN casts a deep gloom over the entire community. Business is entirely suspended, and public and private buildings are draped in mourning. The streets are crowded with indignant and sorrowing people. A meeting was held to-day to make arrangements for a suitable tribute to the memory of the deceased.

PROVIDENCE, Saturday, April 15.

Providence is profoundly grieved and excited. Minute guns were fired and the bells tolled this morning. Stores are closed, and whole streets are draped in mourning. Our Congressional delegation started for Washington this noon.

The Governor has issued a proclamation recommending that the event be remembered in divine service to-morrow.

TROY, N. Y., Saturday, April 15.

The city is draped in mourning. The stores generally are closed and labor suspended. Nearly every building on River-street is draped with the sombre evidences of sorrow and gloom. Flags are all at half-mast, and every face wears a look of sorrow and gloom. Amid the general lamentations this morning, a man named D. L. HUNT, of Rochester, made the remark that Mr. LINCOLN ought to have been assassinated four years ago. A crowd gathered around him at once, and summary vengeance was feared, but an officer interfered, and HUNT was arrested and lodged in jail. The affair made much excitement.

ITHACA, N. Y., Saturday, April 15.

This is the saddest day of all the year. Stores are closed, and the bells are tolling. Gloom is everywhere. The village is draped in mourning, and flags are at half-mast. No event during the war has created such profound and heartfelt demonstrations here as the death of President LINCOLN.

WASHINGTON, Saturday, April 15.

GOV. STONE, of Iowa, has issued the following address to the people of this State:

"WASHINGTON CITY, Saturday, April 15.

The Federal City is shrouded in mourning. In the midst of joy and triumph, the nation is suddenly called to deplore the loss of its greatest and truest friend, foully murdered by a traitorous hand, struck down in the fullness of life, and when strongest in the hearts of the people.

ABRAHAM LINCOLN, President of the United States, an honest man, an exalted patriot, the friend of the poor and oppressed, the deliverer of his country, has been gathered to a martyr's grave.

That the people of Iowa, who admired and loved the fallen patriot and so generously sustained the holy cause he represented, may appropriately testify their sorrow over the national calamity, I wrote them to assemble in their respective places of worship on Thursday, the 27th day of April, at 10 o'clock, A. M. for humiliation and prayer to Almighty God, and I also request, that travel within the State and all other secular employment be totally suspended on that day, and that all public offices be draped in mourning for the period of thirty days.

W. M. STONE, Governor.

BOSTON, Saturday, April 15.

The citizens of Boston, overwhelmed with grief at the awful calamity which has befallen our common country in the tragic death of our great and good President, and in the deadly assault upon the wise and sagacious Secretary of State, and the members of his family, spontaneously assembled, and resolved that an expression of their strong and fervent sympathy be immediately sent to the surviving members of their afflicted families in view of the irreparable loss which they and their countrymen have sustained by this sad event, and also that a message be sent to ANDREW JOHNSON, the constitutional successor of ABRAHAM LINCOLN, as President of the United States, of their confidence in his integrity, his patriotism and his manhood, and of their determination to give him their undivided and unfaltering support, imploring the blessing of God to guide him with the wisdom and virtue which characterized his lamented predecessor.

CINCINNATI, Saturday, April 15.

The news of the assassination of President LINCOLN produced the most profound sorrow and great indignation. Business is entirely suspended. Flags are displayed at half-mast, and the whole city is draped in mourning.

The streets have all been thronged to-day with sad and solemn faces.

Deep gloom hangs over the entire city.

Rumors prevail of several persons having been killed for expressions of joy at Mr. LINCOLN's death, but they cannot be traced to any reliable source, and they are believed to be false.

NEW-HAVEN, Conn., Saturday, April 15.

Business is entirely suspended; bells are tolling; flags are at half-mast; many residences and stores wear the insignia of mourning. A large meeting of citizens is being held in the public square. The speakers are Rev. Dr. Bacon Patton, Messrs. Harwood and Phelps, Hons. H. B. Harrison, J. F. Babcock, J. E. English and R. J. Ingersoll.

The following resolutions, offered by Mr. BABCOCK, were passed:

Resolved, That, as a community, the citizens of New-Haven are overwhelmed with grief at the inexpressible calamity which has befallen the nation, in the death of the President of the United States, ABRAHAM LINCOLN, by the hands of an assassin; and we have come together with full hearts to mingle our tears and sympathies with all our fellow-citizens, who feel that a great and good man has fallen, and that the nation is bereft of one of her firmest and best counselors.

Resolved, That, in this hour of the nation's great sorrow, we express anew, as our best consolation, our trust in Almighty God, the ruler of nations as of worlds, hoping and believing that He will overrule this dreadful event to the good of the smitten people of our land and of our race.

PHILADELPHIA, Saturday, April 15.

All business is suspended.

The Corn Exchange passed resolutions of regret, and ordered the Exchange and its flag to be draped with mourning for ninety days.

NEWARK, N. J., Saturday, April 15.

A citizens' meeting was held this evening, which was largely attended. A committee was appointed to make arrangements for funeral obsequies, and resolutions were passed to were the badge of mourning for thirty days.

CAIRO, Saturday, April 15.

The city is in the deepest mourning over the news from Washington. Business is suspended. The people are appalled and sorrow depicted upon every countenance.

Gen. BANKS delivered an appropriate and impressive address in front of the headquarters here at noon, closing with the following resolution, which was unanimously and fervently adopted:—

Resolved, That we mourn deeply and beyond expression the death of the public servants who have fallen by the hands of the assassin, but will show our devotion to their principles by renewed labor for the success of those principles—that we will with more energy, favor and confidence than ever maintain the government they represented.

TORONTO, Saturday, April 15.

The news of the tragedy in Washington caused a profound sensation here. The flags of the American Consulate, Custom-house, shipping in the harbor, and city, are displayed at half-mast. Stores and places of business owned by Americans are closed. The feeling of grief of the Canadian people is intense, and it is contemplated to give some public expression to it.

ST. JOHNS, N. B., Saturday, April 15.

The announcement of President LINCOLN's assassination caused great excitement here. Sorrow is universal, and the great loss the United States has sustained call for the deep feelings of sympatny.

The vessels in port have flags at half-mast.

The Proceedings in the Nova Scotian Parliament.

THE FLAGS ON THE PIRATE COL. LAMB ORDERED DOWN BY THE BRITISH AUTHORITIES.

HALIFAX, Saturday, April 15.

The Governor had appointed to-day for giving assent to the bills passed, with the usual ceremonies; but upon receiving the news of President LINCOLN's murder, he sent the following message to the Council:

GOVERNMENT HOUSE, HALIFAX, N. S., Saturday, April 15, 1865.

MY DEAR SIR: The very shocking intelligence which has just reached me of the murder of President LINCOLN by the hand of an assassin, and my sense of the loss which the cause of order has sustained, by the death of a man whom I have always regarded as eminently upright in his intentions, indisposes me to undertake any public ceremony such as I had contemplated in my intended visit to the Legislative Council this day. I beg, therefore, to notify to you the postponement of that visit, and perhaps, under the circumstances, men of all parties may feel that the suspension of further public business for the day would be a mark of sympathy not unbecoming the Legislature to offer, and one which none could misconstrue. Believe me to be, my dear Sir, most faithfully yours,

(Signed,) RICHARD GRAVES McDANIELL.

Hon. EDWIN KINNEY, President of the Legislative Council.

The citizens generally all unite in expressions of deep sympathy for the nation's loss.

The flags on the Colonel Lamb were ordered down by the naval authorities.

AT A MEETING OF SHIP-JOINERS OF the United States Navy-yard, Brooklyn, held at American Hall, corner of Hudson-av. and Prospect-st., on Saturday, April 15, 1865, the following preamble and resolutions were unanimously adopted:

Whereas, The sad news has been telegraphed to us of the untimely death of Abraham Lincoln, President of these United States, and

Whereas, The nation has been suddenly plunged from the liveliest joy into the deepest mourning on account of the great calamity; therefore be it

Resolved, That while we bow in submission to the Divine will of Him who doeth all things well, yet we cannot but deplore the loss of our late much-loved President, Abraham Lincoln.

Resolved, That in the death of our Chief Magistrate we have sustained a loss unparalleled since the days of the immortal WASHINGTON.

Resolved, That in ABRAHAM LINCOLN was embodied all the virtues of an honest man—wise in council, fearless in danger, firm in any position he assumed—he had obtained the love of his friends and commanded the respect of his enemies.

Resolved, That as a token of respect to the memory of ABRAHAM LINCOLN, our deceased President, we wear the usual badge of mourning for the space of ninety days.

Resolved, That this preamble and resolutions be published in the Brooklyn Daily Union, the New-York Tribune, TIMES and Herald.
