

The President's Death: The Scene, Return to Washington, a Stunned New York

SCENE OF THE SLAYING: Circled window indicates where the gunman stood as he fired rifle at passing car. At the time the President was shot, his car was at about the same position as the white truck shown above at the right.

ASSASSIN'S VIEW: This photograph was taken through the window from which President Kennedy was shot. The arrow points to a car in approximately the same position as the President's limousine was at the time of shooting.

EXPRESSIONS OF SORROW: President Johnson and Mrs. Johnson with Mrs. John F. Kennedy in Presidential plane at Dallas airport. Mr. Johnson took oath aboard plane.

ARRIVAL IN WASHINGTON: The coffin containing the body of the slain President is moved into Navy ambulance at Andrews Air Force Base

A SADDENED MEETING: Attorney General Robert F. Kennedy greets his sister-in-law

ESCORTED BY WIDOW: Mrs. Kennedy, her stockings still stained with her husband's blood, enters vehicle for trip to Bethesda Naval Hospital

THE CITY MOURNS: The darkened marquees of theaters in the Times Square area reflected the stillness that descended on the city. Performances were canceled, sports events were called off, as were classes at the universities.
