

Andrew Jackson: A Man for the People
The Beginnings of Greatness

1. In row upon row of brilliant red, 5000 _____ troops stand ready, bayonets gleaming in the early morning sunlight.
2. Standing ramrod straight in the center of the American line, General Andrew Jackson of _____ calmly surveys his troops.
3. Affectionately dubbed _____ by his men for his courage and tenacity, Jackson knows he has done all he can to prepare his men for this moment.
4. Andrew Jackson's booming voice rises above the din in a single _____, "Give to them my boys, and let's finish the business today!"
5. As Jackson walks down the American line congratulating his troops on their stunning victory, his _____ erupts again, this time in a deafening cheer...
6. Old Hickory instantly gains a new nickname, The _____ of New Orleans.
7. He will leave his stamp on an era. Historians will call it, the _____.
8. Andrew Jackson was born in March, 1767 in the Waxhaw settlement along the _____ border.
9. Captured by the British, an officer ordered Andy to clean his _____.
10. At 15, Andrew Jackson was an _____ with a lifelong hatred of all things British.
11. Years later, Jackson would be remembered as the most roaring, rollicking, game-cocking, card playing, mischievous fellow that ever lived in _____.
12. Admitted to the bar, Jackson rode _____ in the Carolina hill country.
13. A few years later, Jackson crossed the Smoky Mountains, passed through Cherokee territory, and arrived at the recently established village of _____.
14. By the time he was 22, it was said that he had acquired enough land to make a _____.
15. But their idyllic marriage was shattered when the Jacksons learned that Rachel's first husband had not legally _____ her.
16. But the charge of _____ would continue to haunt their lives and provoke Jackson to assault anyone foolish enough to insult his beloved wife.

Andrew Jackson: A Man for the People
The Beginnings of Greatness

17. Standing 24 feet apart, pistols at their side, at the command, _____ fired.

18. When a surgeon finally removed it, some suggested it be _____ to its rightful owner.

Word Bank

adultery	Age of Jackson	army	boots
British	Carolina	circuit	command
county	Dickinson	divorced	Hero	Nashville
Old Hickory	orphan	returned	Salisbury	Tennessee